MoS unearths photos taken by Labour's deputy that expose truth about house row

IN HER OWN TWEETS... THE PROOF RAYNER HAS BEEN LYING

ANGELA Rayner's claims to have not broken any rules over her property dealings have been blown apart by a Mail on Sunday investigation into her real 'home'.

Labour's Deputy Leader has insisted for weeks that for the first five years of her marriage her 'principal property' was a house in Stockport, where she claimed to live separately from her husband and children. Now this newspaper has disproved her story by studying dozens of postings made by Ms Rayner on social media during that period showing her life with her children and cats at her husband's address.

One of the photos from the property she claims not to have lived at was even posted with the caption 'just got home'.

In every case where there is a picture, the backdrop is the husband's house. It
