

12-page
pullout in Weekend
magazine

How to rid your diet of harmful ultra processed food

A major new series by award winning nutritionist Rob Hobson

PRESSURE ON MET TO QUIZ ANDREW

...as court papers claim he had 'daily massages' at Epstein mansion

By Rebecca English, Daniel Bates and George Odling

SCOTLAND Yard last night said it would not rule out investigating sexual assault claims against Prince Andrew.

As family rallied around the King's brother at his Windsor mansion, Met chiefs said detectives would assess any 'new and relevant' information.

Anti-monarchy group Republic reported Andrew to police on Thursday after newly released legal documents thrust his relationship with paedophile Jeffrey Epstein back into the spotlight.

The court files included claims that the prince knew of Epstein's sex trafficking, committed 'acts of sexual abuse', enjoyed daily massages and took part in an 'underage orgy'. He has vehemently and repeatedly denied all allegations against him.

But pressure mounted on the Yard to act after both Keir Starmer and Rishi Sunak were

Turn to Page 5

How Kate's love kept Derek alive for 4 years

SEE PAGES 10-11