

What to EAT to get your love life sizzling again

INSPIRE: PAGE 27

Cannes do: Sienna Miller with Marlowe last night

Sienna shares the red carpet spotlight with daughter, 11

SEE PAGE THREE

PM's APOLOGY FOR WORST TREATMENT DISASTER IN NHS HISTORY

Devastating report TODAY will lay bare failings over infected blood scandal that's claimed 3,000 lives

RISHI Sunak will apologise to infected-blood victims today, as a devastating report blames successive governments and the NHS for the scandal.

The Prime Minister will

By Jason Groves and Inderdeep Bains

issue a formal apology on behalf of the Government for the handling of a scandal which has claimed more than 3,000 lives and continues to wreck countless others.

Tomorrow ministers will set out plans for a massive compensation scheme, which could cost taxpayers more than £10 billion.

Whitehall sources expect NHS chief Amanda Pritchard to issue her own apology for the worst treatment disgrace in the history of the health service.

The moves come as former High Court judge Sir Brian Langstaff today publishes the

Turn to Page 6