4 DAYS TO STOP SUPERMAJORITY

PM urges voters not to give Labour blank cheque for tax hikes and an amnesty for illegal migrants

RISHI WARNING: STARMER WILL WRECK BRITAIN IN JUST 100 DAYS

KEIR STARMER would do 'irreversible damage' to Britain within 100 days of taking power if Labour wins the election on Thursday, Rishi Sunak declares today.

In a dramatic last-ditch bid to prevent voters from handing Labour a super-majority, the Prime Minister highlights a series of controversial policies which he says Sir Keir would introduce immediately after entering No10 – including scrapping the Rwanda migrant scheme, imposing VAT on school fees and 'fixing' the electoral system to give the vote to 16-year-olds, who tend to be Labour-leaning.

Mr Sunak said: 'It's clear that Labour would do irreversible damage within just 100 days of coming to power.'

'Whether it's announcing a suite of tax rises or throwing thousands of families' plans for the autumn term into chaos with children wondering if they will have a desk at school to go back to. Labour would throw open our borders with their illegal migrant amnesty... making us the soft-touch migrant capital of the world.'

The dramatic plea comes as a Mail on Sunday poll found that a majority of voters
