MIDDLE EAST IN FLAMES

The Iron Dome holds firm against Iran's 200-missile blitz... now Israel vows vengeance

Shield in the sky: Blazing missile fragments fall over the city of Ashkelon last night as the Iranian onslaught is intercepted by Israeli defences

THE wrath of Iran rained down on Israel last night as the rogue state fired nearly 200 missiles at major cities across the country.

In the most dramatic development yet in the Middle Eastern conflict, Tehran launched wave after wave of warheads towards Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

Falling projectiles burned like comets against the night sky after they were intercepted by Israel's Iron Dome defensive system. The attack forced civilians to seek shelter as giant chunks of molten metal crashed to the ground.

Huge explosions were heard, sirens blared and Israel temporarily closed its airspace as the country came under ferocious attack. Last night, Iran confirmed that the country's Supreme Leader had ordered the revenge attack, which is likely to trigger a significant
