NEW NIGHTMARE FOR STARMER

As tax-raised Budget looms, poll reveals Conservatives ahead on family finances for first time since Boris was in No 10...

VOTERS: WE DON'T TRUST LABOUR WITH OUR MONEY

SUPPORT for Labour's policies is in freefall as the scale of the Chancellor's Budget tax grab becomes clear.

With Rachel Reeves planning a record-breaking £40 billion package of tax hikes and spending cuts, a poll has found that most voters now think the Tories would be better than Labour for their finances. It is the first time the Conservatives have been ahead since Boris Johnson was Prime Minister. Just five months ago Sir Keir Starmer's party led Rishi Sunak's Conservatives by 15 per cent on the issue.

The unprecedented slump comes as Ms Reeves prepares to announce a welter of tax-raising measures in her horror-show Budget on October 30, the day before
