

What the King told me about his Gordonstoun schooldays... and why The Crown got it wrong

BY INGRID SEWARD PAGES 20-21

...as Charles is seen out for first time since op

BRIANNA'S MUM: LIMIT PHONES FOR UNDER-16s

Emotional plea for social media crackdown from mother of murdered trans teenager

THE mother of murdered teenager Brianna Ghey said yesterday her daughter would still be alive if children were better protected from the 'Wild West' of the web.

In an emotional interview, Esther Ghey, 37, called for new legislation to help

By Liz Hull, Jim Norton and Jason Groves

parents control what their children can access online through smartphones.

On Friday, Scarlett Jenkinson and Eddie Ratcliffe, both 16, were jailed for life for murdering Brianna, who was transgender, in a brutal and sustained attack.

They lured the 16-year-old to a park in Culcheth, near Warrington, and stabbed her 28 times after planning her killing via horrific messages over WhatsApp and Snapchat. Their murder trial heard that Jenkinson was obsessed with horror films and serial killers and had downloaded a special browser on to her mobile phone to access real-life torture on the dark web.

Ms Ghey said the internet was 'out of control' and companies such as Meta, which runs Facebook, Instagram and WhatsApp, should think less about 'making

Turn to Page 6

Church visit: King and Queen yesterday SEE PAGE 13