

SARAH VINE: What my own deeply scarring relationship with my father tells me about what Harry AND Meghan urgently need to do SEE PAGE 15

HARRY SPENDS JUST 45 MINUTES WITH CHARLES

... and Duke and William have no plans to meet at all

2.45PM: HARRY ARRIVES

In: Duke of Sussex is driven in to Clarence House yesterday

3.38PM: KING AND QUEEN DEPART

Out: Charles and Camilla leave Clarence House before taking a helicopter flight to Sandringham

PRINCE Harry met his father for the first time in 17 months yesterday – for just 45 minutes – following the King's cancer diagnosis.

Hours after Charles called him personally to break the news, the

By Rebecca English
Royal Editor

Duke of Sussex had boarded a plane in the US to cross the Atlantic and see him.

Their brief meeting took place at the monarch's Clarence House residence. Soon afterwards the King, looking remarkably fresh-faced and cheerful despite starting treatment for his unspecified cancer in hospital on Monday, was driven to Buckingham Palace. He then left by helicopter for Sandringham, his Norfolk estate, with his loyal wife, Queen Camilla. The Mail understands he is 'doing well' and is on 'very good form'.

A source close to the Prince of Wales, however, made abundantly clear that he had 'no plans' to see his younger brother. William, 41, is now completely estranged from Harry following several years of vicious attacks against the monarchy, as well as himself and his wife personally.

Sources made clear that William's focus is, as it has been for the past few

Turn to Page 2