WELBY MUST QUIT AFTER FAILING TO ACT ON ABUSE, SAYS BISHOP

Church's leader faces pressure to step down from clergy and victims of sadistic QC

THE Archbishop of Canterbury's position looked increasingly untenable last night after a senior bishop told him to resign.

The Bishop of Newcastle broke ranks to say Justin Welby must step down after a damning report found that his failure to act meant a prolific child abuser was never brought to justice.

Helen-Ann Hartley joined the growing chorus of voices demanding the Archbishop resign immediately so the Church of England can begin drawing a line under the scandal.

A petition calling for Mr Welby to go – started by three members of the Church's ruling body, the General Synod, and backed by several high-profile priests – passed 8,800
