

I'm downsizing to a one-bed cottage so that my adult children can't keep moving back in!

SEE PAGES 34-35

Vindictive gesture against giant of politics – by PM of just 7 weeks

OUTRAGE AS STARMER REMOVES MAGGIE'S PORTRAIT

KEIR Starmer sparked fury yesterday by removing a portrait of Margaret Thatcher from her former study in No 10.

In a move branded 'petty', the Prime Minister had the

By Harriet Line
Deputy Political Editor

£100,000 painting taken down from the Thatcher Room in Downing Street after reportedly finding it 'unsettling'.

Painted by royal portrait artist Richard Stone, it depicts the Iron Lady at the height of her powers just after the Falklands War in 1982.

It was commissioned by prime minister at the time, Gordon Brown, as a tribute to her achievements, and unveiled in No 10 in 2009. The painting – which the artist hoped would stay in Downing Street 'for

Turn to Page 6

MAIL ROYAL SPECIAL

Harry and William together at uncle's Norfolk funeral

SEE PAGE 5