

More years of hurt:
Harry Kane walks past the trophy in Berlin last night

Unbearable tension, a wonder goal...but football's not coming home

SEE PAGES
4-11

Ex-president tipped for 'landslide' election victory after miracle survival of assassination attempt that's left America in turmoil

TRUMP: EVIL WON'T WIN

DONALD Trump vowed he would 'not allow evil to win' after surviving a terrifying assassination attempt.

The former president has been tipped for a 'landslide' election

By Andy Jehring
and Daniel Bates

win after a gunman opened fire at a rally in Pennsylvania.

America was left in uproar this weekend as dramatic photos of a blood-stained Mr Trump pumping his fist in the air circulated around the world. Last night he announced he would not postpone the Republican National Convention, which starts today, where he will officially become the party's presidential nominee.

The would-be assassin was named yesterday as Thomas Crooks, 20, a registered Republican and high school 'outcast' who is believed to have acted alone. Last night the US authorities found explosive devices in his car.

Armed with an AR-15 rifle, he crawled onto a roof just 130 yards from Mr Trump at a political rally in Butler on

Turn to Page 2