

LABOUR TO WIN HISTORIC LANDSLIDE

Winning hands down: Sir Keir and wife Victoria in London yesterday

DRAMATIC EXIT POLL

- Starmer heads for projected 170 majority – biggest since Blair
- ...but 'lower vote share than Boris' as Reform surge hammers Tories
- Conservatives to slump to just 131 seats – worst in party's history

SIR Keir Starmer was on course for No 10 last night as the Tories crashed to their worst defeat in history.

The official exit poll at 10pm predicted Labour will secure a huge majority of 170 – potentially

By Jason Groves
Political Editor

setting up Sir Keir for a decade in power, despite possibly getting a smaller share of the vote than Jeremy Corbyn achieved in 2017 or

Turn to Page 4