

THE TRIAL
OF LORD
LUCAN

Now Britain's No.1
True Crime podcast
on both Apple
AND Spotify

Election 2024: The big TV debate

Ponderous: Sir Keir Starmer

Fiery Rishi comes out swinging – and lands big blows

++ PM claims Keir plotting £2,000 of tax rises for every family ++ Hammers Labour on opposition to Rwanda ++ Instant poll shows voters judged Sunak the winner

Punchy: Rishi Sunak

RISHI Sunak came out fighting last night as he hammered Sir Keir Starmer over tax and immigration on live TV.

In a combative performance in

By Jason Groves, Harriet Line
and Kumail Jaffer

the first head-to-head TV debate of the election, the Prime Minister warned that tax rises were 'in Labour's DNA'.

Mr Sunak told voters they should

'start saving' unless they act to prevent a Labour victory next month.

'I'm really clear that I am going to keep cutting taxes and you're going to put them up,' he told Sir Keir in the ITV debate.

'Mark my words, Labour will raise your taxes. It's in their DNA. Your work, your car, your pension. You name it, Labour will tax it.'

A snap poll by YouGov found viewers believed Mr Sunak won the debate by a narrow margin of 51:49, but those who voted Tory in 2019 said he won by a huge margin of 85:15. The PM

Turn to Page 6