NOW CIVIL SERVANTS TO STRIKE OVER WFH!

Statistics staff plan walkout after being told to come to office TWO days a week

CIVIL servants will strike after being ordered to return to the office for just two days a week.

Staff at the Office for National Statistics have worked from home since the start of lockdown but want to keep the option of doing so full time.

It is believed to be the first time a walkout has been organised by civil servants over demands to return to the office. Ministers want Whitehall staff back at their desks at least 60 per cent of the time, or three days a week for full-time staff, amid fears that WFH has reduced productivity and increased waiting times for services.

Sir Jacob Rees-Mogg, who as
