As notorious extremist Anjem Choudary faces life for new bid to recruit terrorists AFTER release from jail

WHY WAS JIHAD PREACHER FREED TO SPOUT HATE?

By Rebecca Camber

BRITAIN'S most notorious hate preacher embarked on a global bid to recruit the next generation of terrorists after being freed from jail.

Anjem Choudary faces life in prison after an unprecedented investigation uncovered he was recruiting followers in Brazil, Canada and the US.

The 57-year-old – whose lectures have spawned beheadings and bomb plots around the world – was also found to be peddling sermons to British schoolchildren as young as 14.

Last night security experts blasted the terms of his prison release, saying Choudary was so dangerous he should never have been freed in the first place.

The cleric was jailed for five years in 2016 for inviting support for Islamic State. He was released from HMP Belmarsh halfway through his sentence in 2018 and made subject to strict licence conditions, including a ban on using the internet.

But, within three weeks of those terms lapsing in July 2021, he started pumping
