

What happened when I went back to live with Mum – at the age of 55

SEE PAGES 20-21

Daily Mail

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 2024

dailymail.co.uk

£1.10 85p to subscribers

SCAN TO SUBSCRIBE
AND SAVE

As it's revealed Labour has set up 67 taxpayer-funded reviews, taskforces and consultations in first 150 days – instead of actual policies – Starmer stands accused of...

GOVERNMENT BY TALKING SHOP

By Martin Beckford
Policy Editor

LABOUR was last night ridiculed over the blizzard of 'talking shops' it has launched since winning the election.

At least 67 reviews, consultations and taskforces have been set up by Whitehall departments in the first 150 days of the new Government – nearly one every other day.

Even more have been promised, including in areas such as cutting the bloated benefits bill, that will not even begin until next year.

It has prompted claims that ministers are putting off taking urgent action to fix public services and improve the economy.

Sir Jacob Rees-Mogg, who served as minister for government efficiency in the Cabinet Office, told the Mail: 'To govern is to choose – to govern is not to review.'

'The purpose of opposition is to work out what to do in government, but they have got elected without a clue. It's absolutely astonishing – they don't seem to have any

Sorry: Gregg Wallace apologises for his remarks yesterday

BBC bosses refuse to take
'misogynist'
Gregg Wallace off the air

SEE PAGE 5

Turn to Page 6