

Why yoga can be better than pills for depression

Is this the reason some women are 'pear-shaped?'

Christmas gifts to boost wellbeing

Sharp dresser: Ms Ora in London last night

Rita shows some backbone at fashion awards

SEE PAGE THREE

BIGGEST EVER CLAMPDOWN 'WILL SLASH MIGRATION BY 300,000'

Salary threshold for foreign employees hiked to £38,000 ++ Curbs on care workers' families ++ Now Cleverly flies out to seal Rwanda treaty

JAMES Cleverly last night vowed 'enough is enough' as he unveiled tough reforms designed to slash net migration by 300,000 a year.

After a battering from the Tory

By David Barrett and Jason Groves

backbenches over record levels of immigration, the Home Secretary pledged a five-point plan would lead to the 'biggest ever reduction in net migration'.

Hailing 'the most substantial package of legal migration reforms this country has ever seen,' he said care workers will be barred from bringing family members to Britain.

The salary threshold for a work visa will rise by £12,500 to more than £38,000 a year. And to stop immigration 'undercutting British workers',

Turn to Page 2