Blackouts in Kyiv as grid takes a hammering

Ruthless Russian strikes on power plants force rationing across nation

BY DAVID L. STERN, SIOBHÁN O'GRADY AND ANASTACIA GALOUCHKA

KYIV — The cutoffs started Monday and have only increased throughout the week, plunging much of Ukraine's capital into darkness save for a few hours every day. In some parts of the city, even the traffic lights are turned off, and at night entire neighborhoods are draped in black

The relentless pounding of Ukraine's power plants by Russian drones and missiles is finally being felt. The state electricity distributor, Ukrenergo, said the latest onslaught on the power grid over the weekend meant rationing power throughout the country. It had been the sixth such barrage since March.

"We are catastrophically short of electricity for our needs," Serhii Kovalenko, chief executive of the Ukrainian private electricity distributor, wrote on Facebook on Wednesday. The power cuts have divided Kyiv into the haves and the havenots - with even residents at some privileged, high-end addresses suddenly finding themselves in the latter category. Residents trade tips about what has kept their homes powered while their neighbors went dark: power lines connected to a railway office, for example, or a children's hospital.

Aline Laptiy, 18, a coffee shop worker who lives in a neighborhood outside Kyiv's city center, SEE UKRAINE ON A13

Bannon must begin prison time by July 1

Judge drops hold on four-month sentence for contempt of Congress

BY SPENCER S. HSU

A federal judge on Thursday ordered former Trump political adviser and right-wing podcaster Stephen K. Bannon to report to prison by July 1 to begin serving a four-month prison term for contempt of Congress.

Federal prosecutors had asked the judge to lift a previous hold on Bannon's sentence, arguing that no substantial legal questions remain over his two-count conviction for refusing to provide documents or testimony to a House committee probing the Jan. 6, 2021, attack on the U.S. Capitol. A panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit rejected Bannon's appeal on all grounds last month, though his legal team has indicated that it plans to take its fight to the Supreme Court, if necessary.

U.S. District Judge Carl J. Nichols agreed with prosecutors after a nearly hour-long hearing.

A nod to fights past, present

Biden draws line from D-Day's heroism to clouds of modern-day authoritarianism

BY CLEVE R. WOOTSON JR., TOLUSE OLORUNNIPA AND ANNABELLE TIMSIT

COLLEVILLE-SUR-MER, FRANCE President Biden joined world leaders in Normandy on Thursday to commemorate the 80th anniversary of D-Day, a somber setting where he drew a link between the historic fight to defeat the Nazis and the modernday battles against authoritarianism and isolationism.

"In their generation, in their hour of trial, the Allied forces of D-Day did their duty," Biden said, standing before dozens of World War II veterans at the Normandy American Cemetery. "Now the question for us is, in our hour of trial, will we do ours?

While Biden's speech was directed at a global audience including the more than two dozen heads of state and government who were attending ceremonies in Normandy — it came against the backdrop of a fierce domestic SEE D-DAY ON A11

TOP: President Biden and first lady Jill Biden, with French President Emmanuel Macron and French first lady Brigitte Macron, in Normandy on Thursday. ABOVE: A woman at the Normandy American Cemetery in Colleville-sur-Mer.

In photos: Veterans of D-Day gather, perhaps for the last time, at site of the invasion. A10

Bomb in strike made in U.S.

EXPERTS IDENTIFY DEVICE'S NOSE CONE

IDF attack killed dozens at U.N. campus in Gaza

> BY LOUISA LOVELUCK, HAJAR HARB, CATE BROWN AND NIHA MASIH

Israeli fighter jets appear to have used a U.S.-made munition in a strike that killed dozens of people inside a U.N. school in the central Gaza Strip on Thursday, according to five weapons experts who examined verified footage from the debris.

The Israel Defense Forces said the aircraft attacked "three classrooms" with precision weapons, targeting a group of militants it said included fighters who participated in the Oct. 7 attacks. But the facility in the Nuseirat refugee camp was also packed with thousands of civilians displaced by the war, according to the U.N. Relief and Works Agency, which aids Palestinian refugees. The morgue at nearby al-Aqsa Martyr's Hospital said late Thursday that 33 people were killed in the strike, revising down an earlier toll, the Associated Press reported. The morgue said nine children, three women and 21 men were killed, according to the AP.

The Gaza Health Ministry, citing the hospital, initially said 40 people had been killed, including 14 children and nine women. It was not immediately clear what caused the discrepancy, the AP reported.

The nose cone of a GBU-39 small-diameter bomb, which is manufactured by Boeing, was visible in footage taken by an eyewitness, Emad Abu Shawish, in the aftermath of the attack. His images were verified by Storyful and independently geolocated by The Washington Post.

"We are confident that our activities were effective in limiting SEE GAZA ON A12

Rafah: Aid route's reopening still faces significant obstacles. A13

Shanaya Dungey, left, and Lu Rattigan at the Roots Picnic in Philadelphia on June 2. Dungey says she is undecided for November, but will never back Donald Trump. Rattigan is not planning to vote.

ELECTION 2024

For young Black voters, frustration taints choice

In interviews, members of a key 2020 bloc aren't impressed with Biden-Trump rematch

BY SABRINA RODRIGUEZ AND HANNAH YOON IN PHILADELPHIA

s tens of thousands of people gathered over the week-Lend at the Roots Picnic, a popular two-day music festival created and hosted by hip-hop group the Roots, politics was certainly not the focus. But they were not absent, either.

Volunteers Michelle Obama's nonpartisan When We All Vote registered some festivalgoers to vote and underscored to them the importance of turning out for this election. Some fans of rapper Sexyy Red sported hats that read "Make America Sexyy Again." A few men wore kaffiyehs, a traditional Arab scarf that has become a symbol of support for Palestinians.

The festival, held in Philadelphia and headlined by famed artists such as Lil Wayne and Jill Scott, attracted a largely younger and Black crowd — groups that were key parts of President Biden's winning coalition in 2020 but whose support has softened ahead of this year's election.

Less than four miles away and just days earlier, Biden and Vice President Harris launched "Black Voters for Biden-Harris" in this battleground state, as part of the campaign's effort to energize and mobilize the party's most loyal constituency. Biden framed the

SEE BLACK VOTERS ON AS

IN THE NEWS

Clooney calls out Biden The actor vented to a White House aide about the president's criticism of war crimes charges against Israeli leaders that his wife worked on. A3

Tornado outbreak A spate of twisters injured at least five people but, overall, Montgomery County "got very lucky." B1

THE NATION

Policymakers tied to Donald Trump want to limit insurance coverage for abortion. A4 An exhibit in the Senate rotunda marking a synagogue massacre is sparking discussion. A6

THE WORLD

European Parliament elections have many asking how far right the E.U. could shift. A11 A man in Mexico died of a bird flu subtype not previously known to spread to humans. A13

THE ECONOMY Donald Trump and

President Biden back Chinese-import tariffs, something experts say might raise prices. A14 In a sign of progress against high inflation globally, the European Central Bank cut interest rates for the first time in five years. A15

THE REGION

In D.C., Wendell Felder clinched the Democratic nomination for council in Ward 7, making him the likely successor to Vincent C. Gray. B1 A former officer who pepper-sprayed a handcuffed man was "a bully with a badge," prosecutors said. B1

STYLE At the trial for Hunter

Biden, first lady Jill Biden is just a mom in a courtroom gallery. C1

WEEKEND Shaw has welcomed at least six nightspots in the past three years, giving rise to a new heart of LGBTQ+ nightlife in the District.

BUSINESS NEWS OBITUARIES. TELEVISION

> CONTENT © 2024 The Washington Post Year 147, No. 53875