US President Donald Trump arrived in the UAE yesterday, after visiting Saudi Arabia and Qatar. President

His Highness Shaikh Mohammad Bin Zayed Al Nahyan welcomed him upon his arrival at the presidential terminal in Abu Dhabi International Airport.

Also present to receive the US President were Shaikh Tahnoon Bin Zayed Al Nahyan, Deputy Ruler of Abu Dhabi and National Security Adviser and Shaikh Abdullah Bin Zayed Al Nahyan, Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs, among other dignitaries.

by a ceremonial escort of military jets in honour of his visit. The squadron leader radioed the aircraft to request permission to accompany it to the Presidential Airport, extending a warm welcome to President Trump on behalf of the UAE.

Trump's visit follows billion-dollar pledges from those countries earlier in the Middle East tour, which started on Tuesday.

Trump's visit to the UAE underscores the depth of the US-UAE relations and a shared vision for future-driven cooperation.

first stop once again as a reaffirmation of the region's critical role across various domains.

Close ties

Bilateral diplomatic relations were established shortly after the formation of the UAE in 1971, with the UAE Embassy in Washington inaugurated in 1974, followed by the opening of the US Embassy in Abu Dhabi the same year.

The UAE-US cooperation spans multiple areas, most notably development, politics, security, economy, trade, military, and partnerships tied to the Abraham Accords.

The two countries have successfully laid strong foundations for long-term economic collaboration and forged innovative partnerships in emerging fields such as artificial intelligence, food security, clean energy, space exploration, and other priority areas in science, education, and culture.

The UAE and the US enjoy privileged economic and investment relations. According to the UAE Ministry of Economy, non-oil foreign trade between the two nations amounted to $32.8 billion in 2024. The US ranked as the UAE's 6th largest global trade partner and the top one outside Asia, accounting for 4 per cent of the UAE's non-oil trade in 2024.

The UAE is also a major investor in the United States, with investments estimated at $1 trillion, spanning sectors such as trade, aviation, manufacturing, energy, advanced technology, and artificial intelligence.

UAE evacuates 188 patients, family members from Gaza

Since October 2023, the country has provided over 40% of total aid delivered

ABU DHABI

Following the directives of President His Highness Shaikh Mohammad Bin Zayed Al Nahyan to provide treatment and health care to 1,000 wounded Palestinian children and 1,000 cancer patients from the Gaza Strip in UAE hospitals, the UAE — in cooperation with the World Health Organisation (WHO) — has conducted its latest evacuation flight from Ramon airport in Israel, via Karam Abu Salam crossing, carrying 101 injured people, and accompanied by 87 family members.

So far, 2,630 patients and family members have arrived in the UAE, which reflects the country's commitment to providing the necessary medical treatment for Palestinians in UAE hospitals.

Sultan Al Shamsi, Assistant Minister of Foreign Affairs for Development and International Organisations and Vice-Chairman of the UAE Aid Agency, said: "The initiative demonstrates the UAE's long-standing support for the brotherly Palestinian people, and the country's solidarity with the people of Gaza during the ongoing crisis. The UAE humanitarian initiatives contribute to alleviating the disastrous impacts endured by residents of the Strip, particularly children, women, and the elderly."

Al Shamsi added, "Since the onset of the crisis in October 2023, the country has provided over 40 per cent of the total amount of aid delivered."
