

I was still a virgin at 51, despite having been married twice

SECRETS & LIVES STARTS PAGE 29

STARMER LEFT SQUIRMING BY ALBANIA FARCE

Plan to send asylum seekers to Balkans implodes on live TV

From Jason Groves in Tirana

KEIR Starmer faced humiliation over his latest attempt at a migrant crackdown yesterday.

In a surprise move, the Prime Minister used a trip to Albania to unveil plans to create Rwanda-style centres abroad to house failed asylum seekers from the UK.

But the initiative imploded on live TV just an hour later when his host, Albanian PM Edi Rama, ruled out ever taking part in the scheme.

The plan is a major U-turn for Sir Keir, who branded the previous government's Rwanda deportation scheme a gimmick and scrapped it within days of taking office.

Towering over Sir Keir at a press conference in the capital Tirana, 6ft 7in Mr Rama said his country had no interest in expanding a similar deal it had struck with Italy.

Leaving Sir Keir squirming, Mr Rama said: 'I have been very clear since day one when we started this process with Italy that this was a one-off with Italy because of our very close relationship but also because of the geographical situation which makes a lot of sense.'

He added: 'We have been asked by several countries if we were open to it and we said no, because we are loyal to the marriage with Italy and the rest is just love.' Shadow Home

Turn to Page 6

Rubbing shoulders: Brooklyn Beckham and wife Nicola

SHOWBIZ EXCLUSIVE

The real inside story of how Brooklyn and Nicola bonded with Sussexes over dinner

SEE PAGES 20-21