Emirates, Etihad offer insurance covers

DUBAI
BY DHANUSHA GOKULAN
Chief Reporter

Emirates has launched what it describes as the world's most comprehensive travel insurance cover, adding protection for conflict-related medical expenses, trip extensions and disruption support.

The world's largest international airline also said the insurance cover is backed by airline-managed hotel accommodation and extended-stay support "across a range of disruption scenarios."

Made available from yesterday, the new conflict-related cover feature provides reimbursement of up to $25,000 for medical expenses and allows customers to extend their trip by up to 30 days at no additional cost.

Meanwhile, Etihad's programme, launched with DCT Abu Dhabi, provides complimentary medical travel insurance for up to 15 days to eligible international visitors arriving in Abu Dhabi on Etihad-operated flights.

Trump threatens 'dropping bombs' if Iran doesn't 'behave'

G7: DEAL HISTORIC CHANCE TO ADDRESS IRAN'S NUCLEAR, REGIONAL ACTIVITIES

DUBAI
BY STEPHEN N. R.

US President Donald Trump yesterday warned Iran that military action could resume if Tehran fails to honour a memorandum of understanding due to be signed in Switzerland tomorrow, while also casting doubt on whether the ceremony will go ahead.

Speaking at the G7 summit in France alongside Egyptian President Abdel Fattah el-Sisi, Trump stressed that the agreement was not yet a final settlement. "No, it's not final. It's a memorandum of understanding," Trump said. "If I don't like it, we will go back to shooting at them." He added: "If they don't behave, we'll go right back to dropping bombs."

60-day negotiating window

The accord is expected to formalise a ceasefire between the US and Iran and open a 60-day negotiating window aimed at reaching a broader agreement covering Tehran's nuclear programme, sanctions relief and maritime security. According to leaked versions of the document, Iran would move to reopen the Strait of Hormuz, resume unrestricted oil exports and gain access to a proposed $300 billion reconstruction and development fund, while Washington would work toward lifting US and UN sanctions if a final agreement is reached.

But Trump suggested the signing was not yet assured. Asked how confident he was that tomorrow's ceremony would take place, he replied: "You never know with deals, do you? But you're going to find out pretty soon."

Despite the uncertainty, G7 leaders backed the emerging accord, calling it a "historic opportunity" to prevent Iran from obtaining a nuclear weapon and address concerns over its regional activities. — with agency inputs

UAE: CAN'T IGNORE IRAN AGGRESSION

Dr Anwar Gargash, Diplomatic Adviser to the UAE President, said any discussion of new regional arrangements must acknowledge Iran's direct aggression against the UAE and other GCC states.

Gargash was responding to comments by former Arab League Secretary-General Amr Moussa, who welcomed the emerging US-Iran understanding and said it should serve as a starting point for broader regional agreements, including renewed efforts on the Palestinian issue. "With all due respect to Mr Amr Moussa, talking about new regional arrangements should not overlook a fundamental reality," Gargash wrote on X. "Iran's attacks were not limited to Israel and the United States. Tehran also carried out direct aggression against the UAE and other GCC countries."
