HARRY 'TRIED TO MAKE CHARITY BOSS DEFEND MEGHAN'

Sentebale chairman blasts Sussexes over polo match fiasco

By Claire Duffin

PRINCE Harry tried to make the boss of his charity defend Meghan publicly after an embarrassing polo match spat, it was claimed yesterday.

In an explosive interview, Sentebale trustee chairman Sophie Chandauka also claimed donors dropped their support because of the prince's reputation after he quit his royal duties.

She also alleged that Harry 'unleashed the Sussex machine' on her in a case of 'harassment and bullying at scale' after she tried to bring in changes.

Dr Chandauka claimed the prince nearly derailed a polo match to raise funds for Sentebale in April last year by insisting on bringing a Netflix camera crew. She also told how Meghan had said she would not attend
