NEW RUSSIA THREAT

NUCLEAR SUB WARNS OFF PUTIN'S SPY SHIP

'We see you, we know what you're doing...'

Defence Secretary tells Moscow as Royal Navy races to protect undersea cables off Cornwall

A ROYAL Navy submarine surfaced yards from a Russian spy ship in a show of force to protect British waters.

By Mark Nicol Defence Editor

The nuclear-powered HMS Astute emerged from the depths after the Kremlin's 'shadow fleet' vessel, the Yantar, was caught close to UK undersea cables.

Defence Secretary John Healey revealed the incident yesterday and, in remarks directed at Vladimir Putin, warned: 'We see
