MINISTER FOR HYPOCRISY IS FORCED TO QUIT

Labour minister for homeless evicted her own tenants, then hiked rent

By Ryan Hooper and Harriet Line

LABOUR'S homelessness minister was forced to quit last night after an embarrassing eviction row.

Rushanara Ali was accused of 'staggering hypocrisy' amid claims she ejected tenants from one of her properties, before putting it back on the market for an extra £700 a month in rent.

Following mounting calls to resign, she last night announced she would stand down from the Government to avoid becoming 'a distraction'.

But in a letter to the Prime Minister, there was no apology. Instead Ms Ali insisted she had followed 'all relevant legal requirements' and said she 'took my responsibilities and duties seriously'.

She has repeatedly cast herself as a voice for hard-up tenants, and has spoken out against private renters 'being exploited and discriminated against'. And she
