

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

DOW JONES | News Corp *****

FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 2025 ~ VOL. CCLXXXVI NO. 33

WSJ.com

★★★★ $5.00

DJIA 43968.64 ▼ 224.48 0.51% NASDAQ 21242.70 ▲ 0.3% STOXX 600 546.05 ▲ 0.9% 10-YR. TREAS. (New Issue) yield 4.243% OIL $63.88 ▼ $0.47 GOLD $3,400.30 ▲ $20.30 EURO $1.1668 YEN 147.13

What's News

Business & Finance

◆ Trump said he would nominate Stephen Miran, the head of the White House Council of Economic Advisers, to fill a vacancy on the Fed's board on an interim basis. A1

◆ Trump's tariff war has inflicted almost $12 billion of losses on global automakers, the biggest hit they have taken since the pandemic, and those may be just the beginning. A1

◆ China's exports grew at a faster clip in July, showing that U.S. tariffs so far haven't curtailed China's outward trade although volumes with America have fallen. A2

◆ GM plans to import batteries from China to power its second-generation Chevrolet Bolt electric vehicle. B1

◆ U.S. stocks ended mixed after Trump's new tariffs kicked in, with the S&P 500 and Dow losing 0.1% and 0.5%, respectively, and the Nasdaq rising 0.3% to a record. B1

◆ The Bank of England cut its key interest rate for the fifth time in a year in what its governor called a finely balanced decision. A16

◆ Intel shares fell after Trump called on the company's chief executive to resign because of his past ties to China. A1

◆ The president shook up Wall Street with an order widening 401(k) investors' access to private markets and a decree on "debanking." B1

◆ OpenAI unveiled GPT-5, its most advanced artificial-intelligence model, capping years of development that saw setbacks and delays. B1

◆ Shares of Firefly, the Texas-based aerospace company, closed up 34% after making their debut on the Nasdaq Stock Market. B1

World-Wide

◆ Israel will take control of the entire Gaza Strip, the prime minister said, a gamble that defies international pressure to end the war and lacks broad domestic support. A1

◆ After four Shiite members walked out in protest, Lebanon's cabinet voted in favor of a U.S.-backed plan to disarm Hezbollah and implement a cease-fire with Israel. A16

◆ Putin said he could meet Trump in the U.A.E. after a Kremlin adviser confirmed that Russia was planning for the summit in the coming days. A7

◆ Ukrainian forces halted Russia's summer offensive in the north of the country, but Moscow is still making incremental gains in the east. A6

◆ Trump asked the Commerce Department to start working on a census that will exclude immigrants who entered the U.S. illegally. A3

◆ Sen. John Cornyn said the FBI will help track down Texas Democratic lawmakers who fled the state to block Republicans from taking up redistricting legislation. A3

◆ The EPA terminated a $7 billion grant program intended to help pay for residential solar projects for more than 900,000 lower-income U.S. households. A4

◆ Ultraprocessed foods make up most of the calories Americans eat, according to a report released by the federal government, but there are signs the proportion might be declining. A5

◆ A businessman was sworn in as head of Haiti's transitional presidential council, tasked with restoring public order. A16

|                          |       |                     |        |
|--------------------------|-------|---------------------|--------|
| CONTENTS          |       | Markets.....        | B9     |
| Arts in Review A10-11    |       | Markets Digest..... | B7     |
| Business & Finance B2-35 |       | Opinion.....        | A13-15 |
| Crossword.....           | A11   | Sports.....         | A12    |
| From Page One.....       | A9    | Technology.....     | B4     |
| Heard on Street.....     | B10   | U.S. News.....      | A2-5   |
| Mansion.....             | M1-16 | World News.....     | A6-716 |

© 2025 Dow Jones & Company, Inc. All Rights Reserved

JEHAD ALSHRAFI/ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinians rush to collect humanitarian aid dropped by parachutes into Gaza City on Thursday amid a worsening hunger crisis.

Israel Plans to Take Over All Of Gaza Strip, Netanyahu Says

Prime minister says control would then be transferred to friendly Arab forces

By DOV LIEBER AND FELIZ SOLOMON

TEL AVIV—Israel will take control of the entire Gaza Strip, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said on Thursday, a gamble that defies international pressure to end the war and lacks broad domestic support.

Israel doesn't plan to hold on to Gaza and would transfer control to "Arab forces that will govern it properly, without threatening us, and giving Gazans a good life," Netanyahu said in an interview with Fox News. He said Israel would keep what he called a security perimeter around the enclave. "We want to liberate ourselves and liberate the people of Gaza from the awful terror of Hamas," Netanyahu said in the interview. His security cabinet voted overnight to approve the new war plan and said the military would prepare to take over Gaza City. A lengthy operation in Gaza has failed to advance Israel's aims of freeing the hostages still held in Gaza or pressuring Hamas to surrender. Netanyahu didn't discuss further specifics of the plan, but Israeli security analysts familiar with its outlines said it would likely begin with the displacement of the hundreds of thousands of civilians living in Gaza City and a weekslong effort to set up aid-distribution infrastructure, new living spaces and medical services. Israel's military could then move toward areas of central Gaza where it has rarely operated in the 22 months of war, essentially displacing Gaza's entire civilian population. Israel hopes the new pressure will bring Hamas back to the negotiating table on its terms and could pause the operation at any point, the security analysts said. Hamas warned that any attempt to take over Gaza "will not come without a heavy and

Please turn to page A7

Autos Take $12 Billion Blow From Trade War

By STEPHEN WILMOT

President Trump's tariff war has inflicted almost $12 billion of losses on global automakers, the biggest hit they have faced since the pandemic. The scary reality: This may be just the beginning.

Beyond the continuing cost of tariffs, automakers in the U.S., Japan, South Korea and Europe face years of retooling and supply-chain tweaks to adjust to the new realities. This comes after they spent heavily to reshape factories for electric vehicles.

The obvious responses to tariffs are to raise prices and move production to the U.S. But both are hard for carmakers to do quickly, potentially saddling them for years to come.

Skeptics say the tariffs will change the industry only at the margins, with global automakers

Please turn to page A2

◆ GM to buy China EV batteries despite tariffs... B1

◆ Toyota sees big tariff hit as it logs drop in profit... B2

JASON GAY
'Son of Prime' makes an NFL preseason game prime-time viewing. A12

MANSION
More wealthy homeowners have both indoor and outdoor pools. M1

Ukraine Diplomacy Hits Turning Point

WASHINGTON—President Trump has long believed the crux of foreign policy is two leaders in a room making historic deals. Pulling off a cease-fire in Ukraine with Russian

By Alexander Ward, Alex Leary and Matthew Luxmoore

President Vladimir Putin would be the kind of diplomatic coup he has long craved. It remains a long shot. The leaders could meet as soon as next week to pursue a peace agreement following months of maneuvering. But their approaches remain at odds. Trump has urged Putin to stop the war but has shown little interest in the specifics of a deal. The Kremlin boss has rebuffed all appeals to halt the fighting, except on his terms. After months of efforts to forge a deal, first by coercing Kyiv and later by wooing Putin, Trump has come to the belief that heightened economic pressure on Moscow might be the only way to reach an agreement.

Please turn to page A7

◆ Putin says Trump meeting could be in U.A.E..... A7

Intel CEO Clashes With Trump—and Board

By LAUREN THOMAS

Intel chief Lip-Bu Tan was already at odds with some board members before President Trump jumped into the fray. Tan and some Intel directors have disagreed in his first months in the role about questions as central as whether the company should stay in the manufacturing business or exit it entirely, people familiar with the matter said. Recent efforts by Tan to raise new capital and acquire an artificial-intelligence company have been stalled by people on the board, they said. On Thursday, the internal tensions were heightened when Trump unexpectedly called for Tan's ouster, claiming he is conflicted by business ties to China. Intel is standing by Tan. The company on Thursday said the company, the board and Tan are all "deeply committed to advancing U.S. national and economic security interests and making significant investments aligned with the President's America First agenda." In a separate statement to The Wall Street Journal, Intel said its board and management team are aligned on the company's strategy. The board and management team "regularly and actively engage in thorough discussions and deliberations," it said. Intel reigned for decades as the world's most valuable semiconductor company, but its failure to foresee the rise of AI helped cut its market value in half since the beginning of last year. The day Intel named Tan CEO in March, the company's shares

Please turn to page A2

New York Has a New E-Bike Speed Limit—and Can't Enforce It

When the city announced a cap in June, haters rejoiced. But the plan had holes.

By BEN RAAB

New York City has an e-bike problem and no idea how to solve it.

The vehicles have taken over the city's streets, and picked up a vocal following of haters. Critics say e-bikes are an urban menace, propellent riders to speeds that make them a danger to humans and dogs. "We have nowhere to escape. The stress level of having to look behind, above, next to you at every sidewalk is exhausting," said Ron Wisniski, a Hell's Kitchen resident of 45 years. Please turn to page A5

Pull over

Migrants Vanish in ICE Detention

Frequent moves hinder defense of those facing deportation

When immigration lawyers sought to defend a North Texas construction worker detained in early March, they couldn't find him.

By Ruth Simon, Elizabeth Findell and Tarini Parti

Immigration and Customs Enforcement records initially showed that Felix Morales Reyna, a 28-year-old Mexican father, was in Alvarado, Texas, 30 miles south of his home in Fort Worth, paralegal Andrea Avila said. But he was actually more than 200 miles north in Cushing, Okla. By the time her firm found Morales, he had been moved to Aurora, Colo.—but his case had inexplicably moved to Anson, Texas.

Over three months, as Morales was shuttled through detention centers in Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico and California, his family and lawyers say they received no notice. His legal case bounced through at least three jurisdictions different from his physical location. "You'd file a bond motion and it would just get rejected as 'We don't have jurisdiction over that case,'" said Avila, adding that she refiled the bond motion 20 times. Please turn to page A9