

The Trial of rap legend
Diddy

Paper with the No.1 AND No.2 True Crime podcasts on Apple

Every twist & turn inside court

The Trial of Erin Patterson

YET ANOTHER LABOUR PLAN TO GO SOFT ON CRIMINALS

CRIMINALS will be hauled back to jail for just a few weeks if they breach the terms of their release under Labour's latest 'pitiful' soft-justice measures.

Justice Secretary Shabana

By David Barrett
Home Affairs Editor

Mahmood is introducing a standard 28-day 'recall' period for released prisoners who are locked up again for breaking the rules – even those who commit new offences.

Currently, freed lags can be kept behind bars for the rest of their sentence if they are recalled.

The new policy will free up 1,400 spaces in prisons amid the overcrowding crisis. Officials said if no action was taken, they would run out of space by November.

But Ms Mahmood was accused of presiding over a 'recipe for the breakdown of law and order', while

Turn to Page 4

Red carpet: Tom
Cruise and Hayley
Atwell in Cannes
yesterday

First review of Tom's last Mission: Impossible

SEE PAGE
THREE