

Chicago Tribune

QUESTIONS? CALL 1-800-TRIBUNE

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 2025

BREAKING NEWS AT CHICAGOTRIBUNE.COM

Protest will put eyes on Chicago

City expects massive 'No Kings' rally amid Trump-led incursion

By Angie Leventis Lourgos
Chicago Tribune

As the federal immigration crackdown in Chicago grows increasingly aggressive, Rebecca Ozaki sees disturbing parallels to her own family's detention in Japanese American incarceration camps during World War II.

Within a month after the bombing of Pearl Harbor, FBI agents came to her teenaged grandfather's home in California and began questioning the entire household. His father was taken away, first to the Los Angeles County jail and then to a Department of Justice camp in New Mexico, where he became one of more than 120,000 Japanese Americans estimated to have been unjustly incarcerated around the country during that time.

Now Ozaki fears history is repeating itself as turbulent immigration raids, mass detentions and a climate of fear plague much of the Chicago area.

"This administration is using similar policies, which is really terrifying, that (were) used against my family and people of Japanese ancestry in 1942," said Ozaki, program director of the Chicago chapter of the Japanese American Citizens League. "Children are witnessing their parents get taken, just like my grandfather saw his dad get taken."

With this ancestral trauma in mind, Ozaki will be protesting the Trump administration at the "No Kings/Hands Off Chicago" march and rally starting at noon on Saturday in

Turn to Protest, Page 4

"People are watching to see how Chicagoans respond to what has been happening... Because we are under attack so dramatically. So violently."

— Kathy Tholin, board member of Indivisible Chicago Alliance

CHICAGO CITY BUDGET

JOHNSON PITCHES HEAD TAX REVIVAL

$16.6 billion proposal targets the 'ultra-rich,' avoids unpopular increase on property taxes

Plan would cut 446 jobs, with refinanced debt, $1B TIF fund sweep helping to cover deficit

Mayor Brandon Johnson delivers his budget address to the City Council on Thursday at City Hall. BRIAN CASSELLA/CHICAGO TRIBUNE

By Alice Yin and A.D. Quig
Chicago Tribune

Mayor Brandon Johnson on Thursday proposed a $16.6 billion budget for next year that reinstates Chicago's corporate head tax while scaling back an extra pension payment, kicking off what could be the freshman executive's most grueling budget process yet.

The recommendation is a mish-mash of fixes that leans on $438 million in new taxes and fees. It avoids unpopular ideas such as a property tax hike, a grocery tax or a garbage fee increase but adds a new charge on social media tech giants and a monthly $21-per-employee tax on larger companies, according to a Wednesday briefing with reporters.

Johnson's proposal — a 3% decrease from this year's spending plan — slashes 446 city jobs, a cut that includes layoffs of some whose pay is funded by federal grants or pandemic relief money that is set to run out.

Other one-time tricks — a record $1 billion sweep of tax increment financing funds, refinancing old debt, borrowing

Turn to Budget, Page 5

A LONG ROAD TO PASSAGE: Just as striking as Mayor Brandon Johnson's thunderous case that his 2026 budget is the best answer to President Donald Trump's attacks on Chicago was the wary reaction from the aldermen who need to vote to pass it. Chicagoland, Page 3

Trump foe Bolton indicted over classified files

By Eric Tucker,
Alanna Durkin Richer
and Michael Kunzelman
Associated Press

GREENBELT, Md. — Former Trump administration national security adviser John Bolton was charged Thursday with storing top-secret records at home and sharing with relatives diarylike notes about his time in government that used classified information.

The 18-count indictment also suggests classified information was exposed when operatives believed linked to the Iranian regime hacked Bolton's email account in 2021 and gained access to secrets he had shared. A Bolton representative told the FBI that his emails had been hacked, prosecutors say, but did not reveal that he had shared classified information through the account or that the hackers now had this information.

The investigation into Bolton, who served more than a year in President Donald Trump's first administration before being fired in 2019 and emerging as vocal critic of the Republican leader, burst into public view in August

Turn to Bolton, Page 4

INSIDE

EILEEN T. MESLAR/CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Loyola says goodbye to campus legend

Sister Dorothy "Dodie" Dwight, left, and Sister Ann DeNicolo, who were at Mundelein College with Jean Dolores Schmidt, take a photo with a cardboard cutout of Sister Jean on display near her former office at the Damen Student Center during a reception after her funeral at Loyola University Chicago on Thursday. Coverage in Chicago Sports

PRITZKER'S GAMBLING WINNINGS: Gov. JB Pritzker offered a quick explanation Thursday for how he took home more than $1.4 million in gambling winnings last year: "I like to play cards." Page 10

'They just ambush us'

Videos of 'targeted' Carpentersville ICE raids circulate online

By Tess Kenny
and Gloria Casas
Chicago Tribune

Catalin Spatar didn't take much notice of the black SUVs driving along Caddy Avenue in Carpentersville on Wednesday morning as he and his construction crew worked on installing fiber optic infrastructure in the northwest suburban village. "A lot of neighbors have black SUVs," Spatar said.

It wasn't until Spatar saw men in black gear running toward his crew that he realized what was happening.

Federal immigration enforcement activity surged in Carpentersville and neighboring Elgin Wednesday, according to local rapid responders, as videos of federal agents spotted across the area circulated online, including outside Carpentersville Village Hall.

Federal agents load men into a passenger van outside Carpentersville Village Hall on Wednesday. STACEY WESCOTT/CHICAGO TRIBUNE

"They hadn't hit Carpentersville really bad (like this before)," said Mari Elena, a volunteer with the rapid response network People's Patrol based at Wheaton's Casa DuPage Workers

Turn to ICE, Page 2

COURT UPHOLDS GUARD RULING: Saying "political opposition is not rebellion," a federal appeals court in Chicago on Thursday left intact a judge's order barring the president from deploying National Guard troops in the city and state pending the outcome of the appeal. Chicagoland, Page 6

TODAY'S WEATHER

High 76 Low 64

Complete Chicagoland forecast on Page 14

$4.00 city and suburbs and elsewhere
178th year No. 290 © Chicago Tribune

