A SUMMER TOO HOT TO BEAR

A polar bear cools down on a pile of ice that was brought to its enclosure on a hot and sunny day at the Prague zoo, Czech Republic, yesterday. Withering conditions that have baked southern Europe for days crept northward yesterday. Barcelona recorded its hottest month of June since records started over a century ago, as health warnings were in effect yesterday in several European Union countries.

14m could die globally due to US aid cuts

LANCET REPORT WARNS A THIRD OF THE AFFECTED WILL BE SMALL CHILDREN

PARIS

More than 14 million of the world's most vulnerable people, a third of them small children, could die by 2030 because of the Trump administration's dismantling of US foreign aid, research projected yesterday.

The study in the prestigious Lancet journal was published as world and business leaders gather for a United Nations conference in Spain this week hoping to bolster the reeling aid sector.

The US Agency for International Development (USAID) had provided over 40 per cent of global humanitarian funding until Donald Trump returned to the White House in January.

The funding cuts "risk abruptly halting — and even reversing — two decades of progress in health among vulnerable populations", warned study co-author Davide Rasella, a researcher at the Barcelona Institute for Global Health (ISGlobal). "For many low- and middle-income countries, the resulting shock would be comparable in scale to a global pandemic or a major armed conflict," he said in a statement.

91.8m deaths prevented

Looking back over data from 133 nations, the international team of researchers estimated that USAID funding had prevented 91.8 million deaths in developing countries between 2001 and 2021.

MORE CUT WOES

Cuts to global aid budgets spearheaded by the US could nearly double the number of people forced to flee their homes this year, the Danish Refugee Council warned yesterday.

The researchers used modelling to project how funding being slashed by 83 per cent — the figure announced by the US government earlier this year — could affect death rates. The cuts could lead to more than 14 million avoidable deaths by 2030, the projections found. That number included over 4.5 million children under the age of five — or around 700,000 child deaths a year.

A recently updated tracker run by disease modeller Brooke Nichols at Boston University estimates that nearly 108,000 adults and more than 224,000 children have already died as a result of the US aid cuts. That works out to 88 deaths every hour, according to the tracker. — AFP
