

Now
Everyone
Is Talking About
Biden's
Frailty

REVIEW

WSJ

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL WEEKEND

PAUL RUDD
WSJ. MAGAZINE

What's News

Business & Finance

◆ Ford stopped shipping F-150 Raptors, Mustang muscle cars, Bronco SUVs and Lincoln Navigators to China to avoid tariffs that have shot up in recent weeks, the latest effect on the auto sector from the Trump administration's escalating trade war. B9

◆ Bank regulators conditionally approved Capital One's $35 billion acquisition of Discover, a deal that greatly expands the buyer's credit-card business and gives it a card network. B9

◆ Apple lost its top spot in China's smartphone market to local rival Xiaomi as Beijing's consumption-boosting subsidies help buoy demand for cheaper products. B8

◆ Lazard bulked up its political expertise with the hiring of Patrick McHenry, the former Republican congressman from North Carolina and ex-chair of the House Financial Services Committee. B9

◆ Sagard, a $27 billion Canadian alternative-asset manager, is positioning itself to tap growing demand from individual investors by acquiring a minority interest in France-based secondary firm BEX Capital. B9

◆ The cybersecurity industry was rattled by the near-closure of a government-funded program that tracks flaws in software, prompting calls for changes to how it operates. B9

World-Wide

◆ Trump said the U.S. would halt efforts to negotiate an end to the war in Ukraine if progress weren't made soon, attempting to pressure both Kyiv and Moscow to compromise. A1

◆ Legal efforts to block the Trump administration's push to remove more Venezuelan migrants under a rarely used wartime law moved rapidly in another tense government showdown with the courts. A4

◆ Maryland Sen. Chris Van Hollen said his meeting with detained migrant Kilmar Abrego Garcia in El Salvador appeared to be a carefully staged photo-op by local officials. A4

◆ Trump's call for Iran to quickly secure a new nuclear accord is complicated by critical gaps in the world's understanding of the Islamic Republic's nuclear inventory. A7

◆ A Chinese satellite company has been aiding Yemeni Houthi rebel attacks on U.S. interests, a State Department spokesperson said. A8

◆ Trump replaced the acting IRS commissioner he had appointed just three days earlier, continuing the upheaval at the top of the tax agency. A4

◆ Reps. Marlin Stutzman and Cory Mills traveled to Damascus on an unofficial visit that is the first trip to Syria by U.S. legislators since the fall of Bashar al-Assad in December. A7

NOONAN
Easter and Passover:
It's never too late A15

CONTENTS Obituaries..... C6
Books..... C7-12 Opinion..... A13-15
Business & Finance B8-9 Sports..... A12
Design & Decor..... D9 Style & Fashion D2-4
Food..... D5-6 Travel..... D7-8
Heard on Street.....B10 U.S. News..... A2-4,6
Markets Digest..... B6 World News. A7-8,10

Christians Around the World Mark Good Friday

TRADITION: A girl waits in a church with women wearing mantillas before a procession in Ronda, Spain, to commemorate the crucifixion of Jesus ahead of Easter Sunday. This year, both the Western and Orthodox church celebrate Easter on the same date.

Pushback on President Mounts

WASHINGTON—In moving to accumulate unprecedented power, President Trump has bulldozed his way through the traditional constraints of presidential authority with such

By Sadie Gurman,
Aaron Zitner and Meridith McGraw

force that institutions including universities, law firms and parts of Congress were left reeling. This past week, some started fighting back.

Harvard University refused to comply with the Trump administration's demands for changes to address alleged bias. Columbia University, facing criticism for acquiescing in negotiations over federal funding, took a tougher tone.

Federal courts raised the prospect of holding Trump officials in contempt. Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell has resisted calls to pre-emptively lower interest rates to cushion any economic fallout from Trump's trade war. Former cybersecurity official Chris Krebs, targeted with a federal investigation for not going along with Trump's claims that the 2020 election was stolen from him, quit his private-sector job so he could more freely battle the White House.

Voters are more loudly voicing opposition to some Trump policies, criticizing Republican lawmakers during town-hall meetings.

"The embers are alive, and there are even some flames of resistance growing," said Peter Wehner, a Trump critic who served in three earlier Republican administrations.

So far, the president and his top advisers are unbowed.

They say the pushback presents an opportunity to paint Democrats, courts and universities as out of touch with voters who sent Trump to the White House a second time.

A senior White House official said Trump's team was eager for Democrats to stay focused on Trump's deportation policies. The official said advisers to the president think fights with Harvard and the judiciary are similarly politically Please turn to page A6

◆ Lawyers fight wartime-law deportations..... A4

Trump Threatens To Halt Ukraine Talks

U.S. warns it will soon move on unless there's progress toward a peace deal

President Trump said the U.S. would halt efforts to negotiate an end to the war in Ukraine if progress weren't made soon, attempting to pressure both Kyiv and Moscow to compromise.

By Michael R. Gordon
in Paris and Jane
Lytvynenko in Kyiv

Speaking in the Oval Office, Trump warned Friday his patience with the diplomatic process could end "very shortly" if headway weren't made.

"If for some reason, one of the two parties makes it very difficult, we're just going to say 'You're foolish, you're fools, you're horrible people,' and we're going to just take a pass, but hopefully we won't have to do that," Trump said.

Secretary of State Marco Rubio said earlier on Friday that the U.S. would shift to other diplomatic priorities if it determined that a deal isn't "doable in the next few weeks."

Trump said Friday he nevertheless remained optimistic about reaching a deal to end the war. "I think we have a good chance of solving the problem however," he said.

Rubio met Thursday with Please turn to page A7

◆ Tiny Russian exclave sends message to West..... A7

Tomatoes Set to Be Trade-War Casualty

By KRISTINA PETERSON

WASHINGTON—President Trump dialed back his trade war—but not on tomatoes.

Starting in July, new fees will hit fresh tomatoes imported from Mexico after the Commerce Department decided this week to end an agreement that has largely been in place for the last three decades.

Agricultural economists said the Trump administration's move was likely to increase prices for consumers, since about 70% of tomatoes sold in the U.S. are currently brought in from Mexico. Officials in Mexico said this week that they hope to renegotiate the agreement before the termination goes into effect.

If a deal isn't reached, tomatoes could be one of the first everyday products to become more expensive as a result of Trump's trade policies.

The exact price increase is unclear, economists said, but one estimated it could be about 10%. Tomato companies that import from Mexico warn the increase could be significantly higher. A one-pint package of grape tomatoes cost earlier this month an average of $2.48, according to the U.S. Agriculture Department.

Please turn to page A2

◆ World leaders pull punches in trade war..... A2
◆ China's tariffs set to weigh on U.S. propane..... A2
◆ Heard on the Street: Why Amazon is prepared..... B10

Police Say He Killed in Self-Defense—His Phone Tells Another Story

Two drivers crossed paths on Highway 9, headed for trouble. One ended up dead, the other walked free, but there was much more to learn in the case.

By VALERIE BAUERLEIN

Boyd raced to catch the black Silverado. He owned a local restaurant that served free meals to police and afforded him a $90,000 truck with a supercharged Dodge Hellcat V-8 engine. He caught up to the Silverado, still barreling ahead, and the two trucks wove in and out of traffic—Spivey in front, Boyd on his tail.

The black truck slowed and turned onto Camp Swamp Road.

Boyd pulled behind the black Silverado. Spivey stood outside his truck holding a gun.

Do not follow me anymore! he hollered.

Boyd and Williams fired their 9mm pistols through the front windshield of Boyd's truck. Spivey jumped

Please turn to page A11

Weldon Boyd's windshield after the fatal shooting on Sept. 9, 2023.

Americans Are Protein Obsessed. It Drives Nutrition Experts Nuts.

* * *

Food companies pack the nutrient into candy, coffee and even water

By JESSE NEWMAN
AND OWEN TUCKER-SMITH

Morgan Gates starts off his day eating six eggs. Later he will down a smoothie made with Greek yogurt, protein powder and berries. For dinner, it's a pound of red meat.

The 28-year-old sales representative is big on protein. "I found that if I prioritized protein and half-assed the rest of everything else, it gave me the body I wanted," he said.

Please turn to page A6

EXCHANGE

CONSTANT GARDENER

Home Depot is breeding new plants to give you a green thumb. B1

