

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

What's News

Business & Finance

- ◆ Atlanta Fed President Raphael Bostic said he would retire when his current five-year term expires at the end of February, avoiding a possible internal row over his reappointment. A2
- ◆ The Dow closed above 48000 for the first time, rising 0.7%, while the S&P 500 gained less than 0.1% and the Nasdaq fell 0.3%. B1
- ◆ Government reports on inflation and the labor market for October are likely never to be released, the White House press secretary said. A2
- ◆ The FTC is investigating whether proxy advisory firms Institutional Shareholder Services and Glass Lewis violated antitrust laws through their business of guiding shareholder votes on contentious topics. B1
- ◆ Chevron said it aims to bring online by 2027 a power plant that would serve an artificial-intelligence data center in the West Texas shale patch. B3
- ◆ Foxconn said it expects a strong year ahead as AI computing demand continues to soar and said it would collaborate with OpenAI. B4
- ◆ Coinbase plans to leave Delaware and reincorporate in Texas, where it views the legal framework as more predictable and efficient. B2
- ◆ Some U.S. life insurers are parking more than half the fixed-income assets they need to fund policies and annuities in hard-to-trade debt. B1
- ◆ Private-equity firm Clearlake will acquire Pathway for almost $1 billion in a deal that will roughly double its assets under management to $185 billion. B10

World-Wide

- ◆ Trump signed a spending package to reopen the government, a measure passed by the House after a record 43-day shutdown. A1, A6
- ◆ Democrats released new emails from Jeffrey Epstein in which the late financier discussed Donald Trump, prompting Republicans to accuse Democrats of cherry-picking and to release 20,000-plus pages of other Epstein documents. A1
- ◆ Democratic Rep. Adelita Grijalva of Arizona became the crucial 218th lawmaker to sign a bipartisan petition to force a House vote to release the files, putting her name down moments after she was sworn into office. A4
- ◆ The IAEA hasn't been able to verify the status of Iran's near-weapons-grade uranium stockpile since Israel and the U.S. struck Tehran's nuclear sites in June. A9
- ◆ Novartis said that a potential new treatment cured more than 99% of malaria cases in a late-stage study. A3
- ◆ Trump asked Israel's president, Isaac Herzog, to pardon Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who is on trial for corruption. A8
- ◆ Herzog condemned what he called a "shocking and serious" attack by Jewish settlers against Palestinians in the West Bank. A9
- ◆ Two of Ukraine's top ministers resigned amid an investigation into allegations of corruption in the country's energy sector. A9
- ◆ John F. Kennedy's grandson Jack Schlossberg said he would run for the House next year to fill a seat in New York City. A4

CONTENTS
Markets.....	B10-11
Arts in Review.....	A13
Business & Finance B2-3	Opinion..... A15-17
Business News.....	B5
Crossword.....	A12
Health & Medicine.....	B4
Technology.....	A2-6
World News.....	A8-9

After 232 Years, U.S. Is Down to the Last Penny

CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: MATTHEW HATCHER/GETTY IMAGES; MATT SLOCUM/ASSOCIATED PRESS (2)

CENTS AND SENSIBILITY: The U.S. Mint in Philadelphia struck the last pennies Wednesday. The coin, produced since 1793, now costs 3.7 cents to make and is being eliminated to save money. Above, the blank coins and the die for the last batch. A3

Epstein Emails Cite Trump As Both Parties Release Files

Democrats' disclosure prompts the GOP to put out documents on disgraced financier

By KHADEEJA SAFDAR AND JOE PALAZZOLO

Democrats released new emails from Jeffrey Epstein in which the late financier discussed Donald Trump, prompting Republicans to accuse Democrats of cherry-picking and to release 20,000-plus pages of other Epstein documents. A1

The emails initially released by Democrats include a 2011 exchange between Epstein and his longtime associate Ghislaine Maxwell, years after Epstein and Trump had a falling-out, as well as messages with journalist Michael Wolff in 2019 while Trump was in the Oval Office.

In the April 2, 2011, email, Epstein wrote to Maxwell: "i want you to realize that that dog that hasn't barked is trump.. [Redacted Name] spent hours at my house with him ,, he has never once been mentioned. police chief. etc. im 75 % there."

Maxwell responded that same day: "I've been thinking about that..."

The White House and House Republicans said the redacted name was Virginia Giuffre and accused Democrats of selectively leaking emails to smear President Trump. The emails were turned over to Congress by Epstein's estate. Epstein died in jail in 2019 after he was arrested on federal sex-trafficking charges.

"The 'unnamed victim' referenced in these emails is the late Virginia Giuffre, who repeatedly said President Trump was not involved in any wrongdoing." Please turn to page A4

◆ Petition forcing Epstein vote succeeds..... A4

Longest Shutdown Ends as Funding Is Signed

Deal extends federal operations through Jan. 30, puts off healthcare decision

WASHINGTON—President Trump signed a spending package to reopen the government late Wednesday, a measure passed by the Republican-led House after a record-long 43-day shutdown.

The vote by the House was 222-209, largely along party lines.

By Katy Stech Ferek, Olivia Beavers and Richard Rubin

The package extends funding for the federal government through Jan. 30 and includes full-year funding for the Agriculture Department, military construction and the legislative branch. The bill also includes language guaranteeing the reversal of federal layoffs that the Trump administration initiated during the shutdown in a move to pressure Democrats, as well as a moratorium on future cuts.

The resolution of the stand-off ensures paychecks for federal employees, including air-traffic controllers, and sends hundreds of thousands of furloughed government workers back to the job. But it postpones until later this year the central political fight: How to address the expiration of healthcare subsidies that are set to be cut off for millions of households.

House passage on Wednesday came two days after the Senate approved the measure. A band of senators who caucus with the Democrats broke with the party to advance the package. Please turn to page A6

- ◆ U.S. likely won't release October data..... A2
- ◆ Secret talks were key to reaching accord..... A6
- ◆ Air travel will take time to snap back..... A6

AI Firm In China Accessed Nvidia's Top Chips

By LIZA LIN AND STU WOO

JAKARTA, Indonesia—President Trump made clear this month that he doesn't want Nvidia selling its most advanced artificial-intelligence chips to China.

But inside a tall, windowless building in Indonesia's capital, about 2,300 of those chips are ready to do work for a Chinese AI company.

A Wall Street Journal investigation traced how a chain of deals across several countries got the chips inside the data center. A company that arranged the transaction is a subsidiary of a Chinese business on a U.S. trade blacklist.

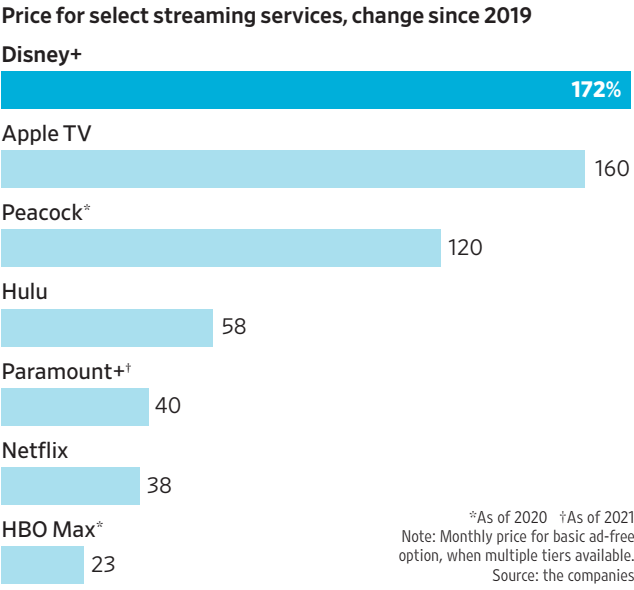

Despite U.S. rules intended to stop China from accessing the tech industry's most-coveted hardware, there is no evidence to suggest the deals violated U.S. law.

Some former and current U.S. national-security officials said the U.S. should review deals such as the Jakarta one. Nvidia and other tech companies argue for fewer export controls, saying it is better to have the rest of the world. Please turn to page A10

◆ Heard on the Street: The AI boom looks fragile... B12

Viewers Pay Up for Streaming

The menu of options for how to watch shows and movies without cable continues to grow—as do their price tags. B1

Economists Conquer Their Fear: A World Without Labor Reports

During shutdown, 'data dogs' slept late and learned new tricks, like talking to a plumber

By RACHEL LOUISE ENSIGN

This past Friday, labor economist Guy Berger got to sleep in for the second month in a row. He wasn't happy about it.

The government shutdown meant there was no jobs report from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. So instead of waking in the dark at 5 a.m. in California to be ready for the release of the report, Berger got up a few hours later and spent the morning drinking coffee and eating yogurt.

"It's a little sad," Berger said of the missing jobs data. "I will be very happy when the BLS data comes back."

He won't have to wait much longer. The House late Wednesday approved and President Trump signed into law a spending package to reopen the government.

For the past six weeks, Please turn to page A12

FBI's Kash Patel Takes a Wild Ride

Trips on the bureau jet and loose talk put him in the hot seat with his bosses

On Halloween morning, FBI Director Kash Patel had a big announcement to make: "The FBI thwarted a potential terrorist attack," he said in a 7:32 a.m. social-media post that referenced arrests in Michigan.

By Sadie Gurman, Aruna Viswanatha, Josh Dawsey and Jack Gillum

There was one problem: No criminal charges had yet been filed and local police weren't aware of the details. Two friends of the alleged terrorists in New Jersey and Washington state caught wind of the arrests and moved up plans to leave the country, according to court documents and law-enforcement officials familiar with the investigation.

Justice Department leaders complained to the White House about Patel's premature post, saying it had dis-

Please turn to page A10

Harvard Frets A's Aren't What They Used to Be

By ROSHAN FERNANDEZ

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—The last time Jake Kamnikar remembers receiving anything other than an A on his transcript was in third-grade art class. He is now a freshman at Harvard.

That streak could end soon. A recent internal report found that Harvard is dishing out too many A's, and that the current system for undergraduates is "failing to perform the key functions of grading" and "damaging the academic culture of the College more generally." The report prompted uproar from some Harvard students who said they already study a lot, sleep very little, and face immense stress to perform academically. Many feel they worked hard to get into Harvard, only for the school to contemplate moving the goal posts.

"You admitted these students because they have straight A's, and now they're getting a lot of A's, and it's like, 'This is a problem.' And I'm thinking, how on earth is Please turn to page A2