Trump: I'll talk to Putin but it takes two to tango

VLADIMIR Putin was last night under huge pressure to end the war in Ukraine.

It came after a dramatic breakthrough in which Volodymyr

Zelensky backed a US peace plan. Senior Ukrainian officials signed off an American proposal for a 30-day ceasefire, which could eventually bring an end to three years of bloodshed.

The so-called 'deal in the desert' was agreed after nine hours of intense talks in the Saudi Arabian city of Jeddah.

Last night US President Donald

Trump said he would talk directly to Putin, telling reporters: 'It takes two to tango. I hope he will agree.'

It is just 11 days since president Zelensky was kicked out of the White
