

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

DOW JONES | News Corp *****

TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 2025 ~ VOL. CCLXXXV NO. 99

WSJ.com

★★★★ $5.00

DJIA 40227.59 ▲ 114.09 0.28%

NASDAQ 17366.13 ▼ 0.1%

STOXX 600 523.19 ▲ 0.5%

10-YR. TREAS. ▲ 14/32, yield 4.213%

OIL $62.05 ▼ $0.97

GOLD $3,332.50 ▲ $50.10

EURO $1.1423

YEN 142.02

What's News

Business & Finance

◆ A group of Wall Street's biggest banks have finally dug themselves out of a $13 billion quagmire that Musk created when he borrowed the money to acquire Twitter in 2022. A1

◆ Deliveroo shares hit three-year highs after the London-listed food-delivery company said it received a $3.59 billion takeover approach from DoorDash. B1

◆ Countries are turning to Wall Street banks such as Goldman Sachs for guidance on how to navigate Trump's global trade war. B1
◆ Trump is expected to soften the impact of his automotive tariffs, preventing duties on foreign-made cars from stacking on top of earlier tariffs. A2

◆ The Dow closed higher for a fifth straight session, rising 0.3%, while the S&P 500 added less than 0.1% and the Nasdaq slipped 0.1%. B9

◆ Airbus agreed to acquire some Spirit AeroSystems facilities that make parts for its jets in a bid to stabilize its supply chains. B3

◆ Toyota Industries said it received a proposal to take the company private, sending its shares up 23% to a record high in Tokyo. B3

◆ Domino's Pizza logged higher profit and revenue in the first quarter as international growth offset declines at its U.S. locations. B3

◆ IBM plans to invest $150 billion in the U.S. over the next five years as tariffs threaten to make international manufacturing more expensive. B4

◆ Chinese robotaxi company Pony AI says it is getting closer to profitability. B4

World-Wide

◆ Trump signed an executive order escalating his battle against Democratic-led states and cities that don't fully cooperate with federal immigration authorities. A1

◆ Canadians were projected to keep the Liberal Party in power, backing Prime Minister Mark Carney to set a new course for their economy and stand up to Trump. A7

◆ With increasing irritation, federal judges are questioning the Trump administration's veracity in legal proceedings. A3

◆ Trump has suggested that tariffs could replace income taxes for most Americans, but even if he left high tariffs in place, the revenue wouldn't come close to raising enough to do that. A4

◆ An air-traffic technology outage led to significant delays at a New York City-area airport and snarled flights around the country. A3

◆ A jet fighter fell off the aircraft carrier USS Harry S. Truman and sank, the strike group's third mishap during its extended deployment in the Middle East. A3

◆ Russia's top diplomat signaled Moscow wouldn't accede to U.S. terms for an end to the war in Ukraine, as Putin ordered a three-day cease-fire starting next month. A7

◆ North Korea and Russia acknowledged for the first time the deployment of North Korean troops in the conflict in Ukraine. A7

◆ Humanitarian supplies are running out in Gaza, spurring debate among Israeli officials over how to ease a blockade without helping Hamas. A8

|                          |                         |
|--------------------------|-------------------------|
| CONTENTS          | Market Data..... B6     |
| Arts in Review..... A13  | Opinion..... A15-17     |
| Business & Finance B25   | Personal Journal A11-12 |
| Business News..... B3    | Sports..... A14         |
| Crossword..... A13       | Technology..... B4      |
| Heard on Street..... B10 | U.S. News..... A2-4,6   |
| Markets..... B9          | World News..... A7-10   |

© 2025 Dow Jones & Company, Inc. All Rights Reserved

Blackout Brings Spain and Portugal to a Standstill

JAVIER SORIANO/AP/GETTY IMAGES

GOING NOWHERE: Passengers disembark from a stopped high-speed train near Córdoba, Spain, during a power outage that caused widespread disruption on the Iberian Peninsula. About half of power capacity had been restored by late Monday. A10

Wall Street Banks Unload Last Batch of Musk's X Buyout Debt

Loans sat on books for 2½ years until election changed company's fortunes

By ALEXANDER SAEEDY

A group of Wall Street's biggest banks have finally dug themselves out of a $13 billion quagmire that Elon Musk created.

On Monday, banks sold the final slug of the debt they lent for Musk's takeover of Twitter in 2022, according to people familiar with the matter. The $1.2 billion of loans sold at 98 cents on the dollar.

The sale is a long time coming. In April 2022, Morgan Stanley, Bank of America and five other banks agreed to lend the money to help Musk buy Twitter. The plan was to divvy up some $13 billion in debt, sell it to investors and earn millions in fees.

By the time the deal closed, the markets had tanked and investors were wary of betting on Twitter's debt. The unloved loans sat on banks' balance sheets for more than two years while the financial prospects of the newly christened

X looked dimmer and dimmer. By the summer of 2024, the X deal was considered the worst buyout banks had agreed to finance since the 2008 financial crisis.

Everything turned with the election of Donald Trump and the rise of Musk as a crucial Trump ally, catalyzing a frenzy among investors to get a slice of Musk Inc. Advertisers such as Amazon.com started coming back to the platform, helping Musk to raise more capital for X. Then Musk merged the social-media platform with his budding artificial-intelligence startup, xAI, forming a venture with a combined value of $113 billion, Musk said.

Banks have sold some $11 billion of X loans to investors since early February.

In a sign of how eager investors were, Monday's sale of $1.2 billion in debt happened even while markets have been in the doldrums since Trump, a Republican, announced his tariff policies this month.

Bankers working on the transaction said they felt that the "high quality" nature of the deal meant they could sell the debt despite recent market volatility.

Please turn to page A4

Liberals Win Canadian Vote

CARLOS OSORIO/REUTERS

STAYING POWER: Canadians kept the Liberal Party in charge, entrusting Prime Minister Mark Carney with standing up to President Trump and forging a new course for the economy. A7

He Went to Bed a Street Sweeper. He Woke Up a National Celebrity.

When Macario Martínez posted his song on TikTok, he had no idea what was in store

By ROBERT P. WALZER

Until recently, Macario Martínez was one of the thousands of fluorescent-green uniformed street sweepers in Mexico City, toiling with their long-bristled brushes in 8-hour shifts for about $10 a day.

Then came the video. Martínez, a 24-year-old aspiring musician and composer, surreptitiously recorded himself riding on the back of his garbage truck as it rumbled down the city's tree-lined Reforma Avenue, his fellow sweepers unaware. He made several takes early one morning and then laid the images over a plaintive, romantic song he'd written about a love scorned. At 7 p.m. on Jan. 27, he posted it on TikTok.

Waking up the next day for his 6 a.m. shift, Martínez was shocked to see "Sueña Lindo, Corazón" ("Beautiful Dream, My Love") had around 100,000 views. His previous videos had topped out at about 1,000.

"That day I went to work, but I was really distracted because I kept checking my TikTok," Martínez said in an interview. Please turn to page A12

New beat

Trump's Next 100 Days to Turn To Tax, Trade and Peace Deals

By ALEX LEARY AND MERIDITH MCGRAW

WASHINGTON—After a 100-day sprint through domestic priorities, President Trump's focus is shifting abroad, driven by a mountain of trade negotiations with other countries, including China, and unfulfilled promises of attaining peace in Ukraine.

By no means is Trump finished at home, where he is consolidating executive power, targeting perceived political enemies, upending the federal bureaucracy, rolling back regulations and imposing strict immigration controls.

Advisers said the breakneck start of Trump's second term had made room for other aspects of his packed agenda.

White House press secretary Karoline Leavitt said Trump had made progress on his twin goals of securing the border and steadying the economy. "The next 100 days will consist of trade deals, peace deals and tax cuts," she said. "More American greatness is on the way."

That confidence will be tested.

Trump's far-reaching tariffs have strained relations with allies. He is growing impatient with the pace of talks to end the war in Ukraine. His plans to rebuild Gaza have stalled as fighting between Israel and Hamas continues. He has launched a trade war with China. And he is threatening military action against Iran if talks to limit the country's nuclear program collapse.

"You're in the disruption phase right now," said former House Speaker Kevin McCarthy, a California Republican. "He's reshaped the power

Please turn to page A6

◆ Former federal employees left waiting..... A2
◆ President has a trust problem with judges..... A3

INSIDE

JASON GAY
Shedeur Sanders, snubbed in the NFL draft, gets football's worst job. A14

BUSINESS & FINANCE
Office meltdown leaves 'zombie buildings' in Chicago's River North. B1

Russian Plans Put Europe on Edge

Kremlin is preparing to add troops in NATO border regions far from Ukraine

By THOMAS GROVE

HELSINKI—With President Trump and many other world leaders preoccupied with the war in Ukraine, some Europeans are growing alarmed about what the Russian army has been doing much more quietly along other stretches of its border with Europe.

Some 100 miles east of its border with Finland, in the Russian city of Petrozavodsk, military engineers are expanding army bases where the Kremlin plans to create a new army headquarters to oversee tens of thousands of troops over the next several years.

Those soldiers, many now serving on the front lines in Ukraine, are intended to be the backbone of a Russian military preparing to face off with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, according to Western military and intelligence officials. The Kremlin is expanding military recruitment, bolstering weapons production and upgrading railroad lines in

Please turn to page A10

◆ Russia offers a short cease-fire..... A7