

I'VE BEEN ON PROZAC FOR 25 YEARS

By ex-Vogue editor Alexandra Shulman PAGES 18-19

WOMEN LEFT IN AGONY BY 'MEDICAL MISOGYNY'

MPs' report condemns gynaecology care crisis — and says GPs are often to blame

WOMEN are enduring painful gynaecological conditions due to 'medical misogyny' in the NHS, a damning report reveals. Doctors often have a poor understanding of women's health, meaning they fail to recognise symptoms and are dismissive of patients' pain, it says. This is fuelled by a 'pervasive stigma' around reproductive health issues and a lack of education about common conditions such as endometriosis, heavy periods and adenomyosis.

By Shaun Wooller
Health Editor

As a result, victims suffer agonising discomfort that 'interferes with every aspect of their daily lives', including their education, careers, relationships and fertility, said MPs on the

Turn to Page 2

Like many women, I'm conflicted about the 'hot assassin'

BY CLARA
GASPAR PAGE 11