

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

DOW JONES | News Corp

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 2025 ~ VOL. CCLXXXVI NO. 72

WSJ.com

★★★★ $5.00

DJIA 46292.78 ▼ 88.76 0.19%

NASDAQ 22573.47 ▼ 0.9%

STOXX 600 554.95 ▲ 0.3%

10-YR. TREAS. ▲ 6/32, yield 4.117%

OIL $63.41 ▲ $1.13

GOLD $3,780.60 ▲ $39.90

EURO $1.1816

YEN 147.65

What's News

Business & Finance

◆ Kimmel returned to ABC after a four-day suspension, calling Trump's attacks on media critics 'anti-American.' The president made new threats against the network. B1

◆ Powell said he judged the Fed's interest-rate stance as "still modestly restrictive" after last week's cut, implying more wiggle room to reduce rates this year if conditions warrant. A2

◆ Big tech companies' share prices fell, helping to depress the S&P 500, Nasdaq and Dow by 0.6%, 0.9% and 0.2%, respectively. B11

◆ OpenAI laid out its vision for a vast, $1 trillion build-out of computing warehouses across the U.S. and abroad, highlighting a site in Texas. B1

◆ UBS said it would pay the equivalent of $985.6 million in France to resolve a case over its role in helping wealthy clients evade taxes. B2

◆ Sempra will sell 45% of its energy-infrastructure unit, Sempra Infrastructure Partners, for $10 billion in cash to affiliates of KKR. B3

◆ AutoZone improved same-store sales, recording 4.5% comparable growth, but lower profit for the fourth quarter as tariffs led to higher prices for auto parts. B3

◆ ASM International cut its revenue forecast for the year amid lower-than-expected demand for semiconductor-making equipment. B4

◆ Eli Lilly said that it plans to build a $6.5 billion facility in Houston to make active pharmaceutical ingredients, including for a new oral weight-loss drug, aiming to bring 615 jobs to the area. B3

World-Wide

◆ Trump said for the first time that Ukraine could win back all of its territory and encouraged allies to shoot down Russian aircraft if they enter NATO airspace, an extraordinary shift that raised pressure on Putin as world leaders gathered at the United Nations. A1

◆ The president upbraided the U.N. and many of its member countries in a speech in which he claimed that global immigration and efforts to fight climate change were among the top threats to Western civilization. A1

◆ Ryan Routh was convicted of attempting to assassinate Trump on a Florida golf course two months before the 2024 election. A3

◆ Denmark's police and military were investigating drone sightings that forced airports in Copenhagen and Oslo to close for several hours. A7

◆ The Secret Service said it dismantled an illicit telecom network capable of shutting down cellphone services and carrying out related threats aimed at U.S. officials. A4

◆ Trump backed out of planned talks with Democrats to avert a government shutdown, with no new meeting set to address the pending crisis. A3

◆ A judge ordered the Trump administration to restore $500 million in federal grant funding that it froze at the University of California, Los Angeles. A5

◆ Orsted can resume construction of a U.S. offshore wind farm that was halted by the Trump administration last month, a U.S. judge ruled. A5

◆ Died: Jonathan Clements, 62, WSJ finance columnist. B1

CONTENTS		Opinion.....	A13-15
Arts in Review.....	A11	Personal Journal A9-10
Business & Finance B2-3		Property Report....	B6
Crossword.....	A12	Sports.....	A12
From Page One... A8		Technology.....	B4
Heard on Street... B11		U.S. News.....	A2-5
Markets.....	B11	World News.....	A7,16

© 2025 Dow Jones & Company, Inc.
All Rights Reserved

President Trump and first lady Melania Trump on Tuesday rode an escalator at the U.N. that malfunctioned on their way up. He later complained about it in his General Assembly speech.

Kyiv Can Win Lost Ground, Trump Says

Sudden shift is a swipe at Russia following fruitless cease-fire efforts

President Trump said for the first time that Ukraine could win back all of its territory and encouraged allies to shoot down Russian aircraft if they enter North Atlantic

By Robbie Gramer, Anat Peled and James Marson

Treaty Organization airspace, an extraordinary shift that raised pressure on President Vladimir Putin of Russia as world leaders gathered Tuesday at the United Nations.

After meeting President Volodymyr Zelensky of Ukraine at the United Nations, Trump in a social-media post wrote that Moscow's conduct of the war was aimless.

"After getting to know and fully understand the Ukraine/Russia Military and Economic situation and, after seeing the Economic trouble it is causing Russia, I think Ukraine, with the support of the European Union, is in a position to fight and WIN all of Ukraine back in its original form," he said.

He added: "With time, patience, and the financial support of Europe and, in particular, NATO, the original Borders from where this War started, is very much an option. Why not? Russia has been fighting aimlessly for three and a half years a War that should have taken a Real Military Power less than a week to win. This is not distinguishing Russia. In fact, it is very much making

Please turn to page A4

President Raps Migration, Green Energy at U.N.

President Trump upbraided the United Nations and many of its member countries in a speech Tuesday in which he claimed that global immigration and efforts to fight climate change were among the world's top threats to Western civilization.

By Alexander Ward, Robbie Gramer and James T. Areddy

In an hour-long speech filled with grievances about ongoing wars, windmills and malfunctioning escalators, it was Trump's attacks against what he called a "double-tailed monster" that rang loudest in the ornate General Assembly room.

"Immigration and the high cost of so-called green, renewable energy is destroying a large part of the free world and a large part of our planet," he said. "Countries that cherish freedom are fading fast because of their policies on these two subjects. Both immigration and their suicidal energy ideas will be the death of Western Europe."

Immigration in particular was ruining other nations, Trump insisted: "Your countries are going to hell."

Trump proudly boasted of his detention and deportation record as well as policies designed to boost fossil fuels at the expense of renewable energy sources. The decision to deliver such an address at the U.N., which champions global cooperation and human rights, was meant as a direct attack on multilateralism and what is known as the "globalist agenda"—a message crafted to resonate with his MAGA base.

"You need strong borders and traditional energy sources

if you are going to be great again," Trump said. "We have to solve the problems, and we have to solve it in their countries, not create new problems in our countries."

In many ways, Trump's remarks mirrored his campaign rallies in the U.S., in which he shifted from subject to subject and often made unsubstantiated or contradictory claims. But one large theme remained

Please turn to page A4

Market Revamp Stalls

After two years of painful economic shock therapy, Argentina is losing jobs and its financial markets are in turmoil. President Javier Milei is counting on his close ties to President Trump to boost his overhaul. A7

SARAH PAIST FOR WSJ

Nvidia's Cash Hoard Keeps America's AI Boom Humming

By ROBBIE WHELAN AND BRADLEY OLSON

Nvidia's move to invest $100 billion into OpenAI to help finance a historic data center build-out has helped reset market expectations about the startup's shaky finances. It is a familiar play by the chip giant.

Chief Executive Jensen Huang has repeatedly sought to leverage the enormous confidence investors have in Nvidia's future to help strengthen the company's supply-chain partners. It has used its balance sheet clout to keep the AI boom humming through deals, partnerships and investments in companies that are among its top customers, including cloud-computing provider CoreWeave, rival chip designer Intel and xAI.

The deals highlight an issue that some investors are calling "circularity" in Nvidia's prospects, whereby the company takes steps to boost or shore up demand for its AI chips by supporting startups and other companies.

Please turn to page A5

◆ OpenAI plans $1 trillion AI expansion..... B1
◆ Heard on the Street: Why Nvidia is spending..... B11

An Alternate Public-Health Universe Emerges

Doctors wary of federal guidance under RFK Jr. are coming up with their own

Robert F. Kennedy Jr.'s handpicked panel of vaccine advisers had decided at its meeting late last week to restrict use of one shot and was about to vote on another when Dr. Daniel Crawford spoke up.

By Betsy McKay, Brianna Abbott and Jennifer Calfas

The panel was acting based on "predetermined ideology," not science, said Crawford, a past president of the National Association of Pediatric Nurse Practitioners who specializes in treating childhood seizures. And the association, he said during a public comment period of the meeting, had lost trust in the advisory panel, which sets guidelines for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

"Because of the lack of trust in the replacement committee, our organization is now relying on outside experts," he said.

A growing contingent of doctors and policymakers say they have grown wary of federal health guidance since longtime vaccine skeptic Kennedy became Health and Human Services Secretary—and they are forming a parallel public-health universe outside the U.S. government.

Professional medical societies are releasing guidelines that depart from the government's stance. Governors and state health officials are changing rules to ensure ac-

Please turn to page A8

Carnegie v. Carnegie: Concert Hall and Diner Face Off

* * *

Lawsuit alleges eatery's branding confuses customers; owner says patrons know better

By CORINNE RAMEY

The hard way to get to Carnegie Hall is to practice, practice, practice. A much easier route: Grab a coffee at the diner across the street.

At Carnegie Diner & Cafe, customers snap selfies in front of a wall-size photo of the legendary concert hall's stage. Images of the artists who have graced it surround them as they eat pancakes and pastries.

Carnegie Diner says it's a tribute. Carnegie Hall calls it theft. The two Carnegies tried for years to resolve the intellectual-property dispute, according to the hall's lawyers, until the diner owners stopped responding and started expanding. Then one Carnegie took the other to court.

Now it's getting messy.

The concert venue accuses the restaurant of sullying its name with what some reviewers have called mediocre food. The diner says the lawsuit insults customers' intelligence by assuming they would con-

Please turn to page A8

INSIDE

PERSONAL JOURNAL

Young adults are finding that love hurts—the wallet. A9

BUSINESS & FINANCE

Jeff Bezos' billionaire dad hires a CEO to run his family office as it expands. B1

Tech Executives Grapple With $100,000 Visa Fee

By ROLFE WINKLER AND ANGEL AU-YEUNG

The all-out panic in the tech industry has subsided. Now comes the debate: Will President Trump's move to charge $100,000 to apply for a coveted H-1B visa help or hurt Silicon Valley?

After a weekend of chaos in which Amazon.com, Microsoft and other tech giants advised employees holding the skilled-worker visas to race home from overseas, administration officials clarified that the proposed fee would only apply to new H-1B applications starting next year.

By Monday, some prominent industry leaders were offering measured enthusiasm for the policy. In a joint CNBC interview, Jensen Huang, chief executive of Nvidia, and Sam Altman, chief executive of OpenAI, expressed cautious optimism about the change.

In a post on X, Netflix Chairman Reed Hastings called it "a great solution," predicting it would eliminate the need for a lottery to award H-1Bs by discouraging applications for anything other than high-value jobs.

"I would gladly pay $100,000 if it meant I was guaranteed to get the visa," said Parker Conrad, chief exec-

Please turn to page A2