US President to make trip to UAE, Saudi Arabia and Qatar on May 13-16

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump is due to meet the heads of state of six Gulf countries while on a visit to Riyadh later this month, a source close to the Saudi government told AFP yesterday. Trump's visit to Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the UAE from May 13 to 16 will be the first foreign trip of his second term — other than a brief visit to Rome for the funeral of Pope Francis. Major commercial deals

Trump has boasted of securing major commercial deals from oil-rich Saudi Arabia, which has also been a key go-between for US diplomacy on Russia and Ukraine. Trump has warned Iran that he would enforce sanctions while calling for the global boycott of "any amount" of Iranian oil or petrochemicals, after a round of talks scheduled for the weekend was delayed. — AFP

409,305 fines issued in UAE for driving too slow in 2024

Most violations in Abu Dhabi, which alone recorded 409,059 fines

DUBAI

BY AGHADDIR ALI
Senior Reporter

More than 409,000 fines were issued to drivers across the UAE last year for driving too slowly — especially on fast-moving highways — according to the latest figures from the Ministry of Interior. The violation pertained to failure to meet the minimum speed limit and not giving way to faster vehicles approaching from behind, particularly in overtaking lanes. This kind of behaviour, officials say, not only disrupts traffic but also increases the risk of accidents.

192

fines were issued in Dubai, while 41 fines were in Sharjah

In total, 409,305 fines were issued in 2024, a significant jump from 300,147 in 2023. Most of these violations occurred in Abu Dhabi, which alone recorded 409,059 fines. Other emirates, like Dubai 192 and Sharjah 41, saw far fewer cases. Under federal traffic law, motorists caught driving below the minimum speed limit face a fine of Dh400. This rule aims to ensure that slower vehicles stick to the right-hand lanes, leaving the left lanes clear for overtaking.

The UAE Cabinet has approved the final curriculum to introduce artificial intelligence (AI) as a subject across all levels of government education, from kindergarten through 12th grade, starting from the upcoming academic year.

"As part of the UAE's long-term plans to prepare future generations for a different future, a new world, and advanced skills, the UAE government today approved the final curriculum to introduce 'artificial intelligence' as a subject across all stages of government education in the UAE, from kindergarten to grade 12, starting from the next academic year," Shaikh Mohammad said.

The curriculum focuses on seven key areas and the modules are tailored to be age-appropriate and will be incorporated into existing school timetables without requiring extra class hours.

To support the rollout, the ministry will provide teachers with comprehensive resources, including lesson plans, templates, and engaging activities adaptable to various learning environments.
