The sixth UAE aid ship arrived yesterday at Al Arish Port in Egypt, carrying a humanitarian gift from Her Highness Shaikha Fatima Bint Mubarak, Mother of the Nation and President of the Supreme Council for Motherhood and Childhood. The aid is set to be delivered to Gaza to support those in need. The ship was received at Al Arish Port by a delegation including Dr Maitha Bint Salem Al Shamsi, Minister of State. As part of the visit, Dr Al Shamsi and the delegation toured the UAE floating hospital in Al Arish (above), which provides medical care to Palestinians from Gaza under Operation Chivalrous Knight 3.

Trump digs in as Israel acts on his Gaza plan

PALESTINIANS SAY THEY WILL NEVER GIVE UP THEIR LAND

DUBAI

BY STEPHEN N. R.
Senior Associate Editor

A day after stunning the world with his announcement of a US takeover of Gaza and the mass displacement of Palestinians, President Donald Trump doubled down on his plan yesterday, claiming that Israel would “turn over” Gaza to the United States after the conflict.

Emboldened by Trump’s statement on Wednesday, Israeli Defence Minister Israel Katz has ordered the military to prepare for “voluntary” departures from Gaza, marking the first concrete step toward execution.

Facing a wave of criticism from Palestinians, Arab governments and world leaders, Trump’s Secretary of State Marco Rubio said any transfer of Gazans would be temporary, while the White House insisted there was no commitment to sending US troops. But, Trump yesterday remained committed to the plan as originally announced, insisting it will lead to Palestinians being resettled in safer, modern communities across the region before the US turns Gaza into “one of the greatest and most spectacular developments on Earth.”

However, Palestinians returning to Gaza’s devastated north told AFP that they would never agree to give up their territory. Standing by the ruins of a toppled building, 41-year-old Ahmed Halasa said, “We only have one choice: to live or die here.”

Trump’s bold, often far-fetched proposals have long left critics wondering: Is he serious, negotiating, or simply creating a distraction? His idea to displace Palestinians and make Gaza the “Riviera of the Middle East” is no exception.

‘Hyperbole’

“Much of what President Trump says is hyperbole, clever negotiating, and serious all at the same time,” said Peter Loge, director of George Washington University’s School of Media. “When he says outrageous things that don’t happen, he plays it off as a joke or tactic. When something works, he claims to be a genius.”

Trump’s announcement and Israel’s swift move to act on it have triggered outrage across the Middle East. Egypt warned that Israeli support for the plan “destroys ceasefire negotiations” and risks rekindling war. Hamas called it a “declaration of intent to occupy” Palestinian land and demanded an emergency Arab summit. Egypt’s Foreign Ministry called it a “blatant violation of international law” and an assault on Palestinian sovereignty.

Finance jobs among most lucrative in UAE

Fundraising and institutional sales professionals are eagerly sought after

DUBAI

BY DHANUSHA GOKULAN
Chief Reporter

The UAE’s banking and finance professionals remain among the highest-paid in 2025, driven by a booming asset management sector, increased investor interest, and regulatory advancements, according to Michael Page’s UAE 2025 Salary Guides.

The report said fundraising and institutional sales professionals are particularly sought after due to their industry expertise and regional networks. Compliance professionals with DFSA and FSRA authorisation, as well as Chief Compliance Officers and MLROs, are also in high demand. Heads of wholesale banking can earn Dh100,000 per month, while senior relationship managers can make around Dh37,000, it added.

Sales and marketing roles also have seen steady growth, especially in B2B industries like real estate, energy, and logistics. Country managers earn around Dh48,000 per month, while CMOs can command Dh90,000. In the tech sector, top roles include full-stack software engineers and DevOps specialists, with head of digital marketing salaries ranging from Dh35,000 to Dh60,000.

However, the report did highlight a growing skill shortage, with 37 per cent of business leaders struggling to find candidates with the right expertise and 48 per cent citing salary alignment as a key hurdle. Retaining talent remains a challenge, with businesses urged to offer competitive packages, career growth, and workplace incentives to attract top professionals, said Jon Ede, Regional Director UAE at Michael Page. He said, “Companies are facing mounting pressure to attract and retain top talent. Businesses that embrace adaptability will be the ones to thrive.”
