BRITISH AIR INDIA FAMILIES ARE SENT THE WRONG BODIES

EXCLUSIVE

By David Jones

THE repatriation of Britons killed in the Air India disaster has been horrifically bungled, the Daily Mail can reveal.

Bereaved families are suffering further heartache because the remains of their loved ones were wrongly identified before being flown home.

Relatives of one victim had to abandon funeral plans after being informed that the coffin contained the body of an unknown passenger rather than their family member.

In another distressing case, the 'co-mingled' remains of more than one person killed in the crash were mistakenly placed in the same casket. They had to be separated before the
