

Terrible day a professor at The Priory told me: You're a danger to your children

The memoir EVERYONE'S talking about – by Sarah Vine

Daily Mail

dailymail.co.uk

£1.20 90p to subscribers

SCAN TO SUBSCRIBE
AND SAVE

TUESDAY, JUNE 3, 2025

As man who burned Koran is convicted of public order offence

TORY WARNINGS OVER 'BACKDOOR BLASPHEMY LAW'

By Sabrina Miller, Rebecca Camber
and Martin Beckford

KEMI Badenoch warned of the impact of creeping blasphemy laws last night after the conviction of a protester who set fire to a copy of the Koran.

Hamit Coskun, 50, shouted 'f Islam', 'Islam is religion of terrorism' and 'Koran is burning' while holding up a flaming copy of the holy text.

He had been protesting against the Turkish government earlier this year.

Yesterday he was ordered to pay £240 and a £96 statutory surcharge after being found guilty of a public order offence motivated by 'hostility towards members of a religious group, namely followers of Islam'.

Last night Mrs Badenoch said the case should go to appeal while a coalition of politicians and free speech campaigners accused

Mystery: Madeleine McCann, three, vanished 18 years ago

New search for Maddie near prime suspect's old home

Turn to Page 2

SEE PAGE 5