

Day the Brexit dream died

Done up like a kipper doesn't even begin to cover the PM's sell-out

RICHARD LITTLEJOHN

The rush to throw in our lot with the stagnant
EU is unfathomable

ANDREW NEIL

STARMER'S SURRENDER

Sir Keir accused of a Brexit betrayal as he caves in over fishing rights – and leaves us subject to EU laws and courts while PAYING for the privilege

KEIR Starmer was accused of a great Brexit betrayal last night after agreeing a deal that hands Brussels control of British laws, money and fish.

The Prime Minister faced a furious backlash over a 'surrender pact' that will make Britain a

By Jason Groves
and David Churchill

'rule-taker', forced to follow EU diktats with no say over them.

Sir Keir agreed to restart payments to the EU budget which could run into hundreds of millions of pounds a year. And, to the fury of Britain's beleaguered fishermen, he caved in Turn to Page 2

Deal: Sir Keir Starmer with the EU's Ursula von der Leyen yesterday