UAE and Angolan Presidents witness CEPA, MoU signings

Leaders of both nations hail progress in strengthening strategic partnership

LUANDA

President His Highness Shaikh Mohammad Bin Zayed Al Nahyan and Joao Manuel Lourenco, President of Angola, yesterday witnessed the exchange of a Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) between the two countries as part of Shaikh Mohammad's state visit to Angola.

The UAE President affirmed that the CEPA will spur further growth in economic cooperation between the UAE and Angola while stimulating trade and expanding investment and coordination between the business communities of both countries.

Shaikh Mohammad stated that the agreement represents an important step in strengthening the UAE's strategic partnerships with African nations that share its vision for economic growth and sustainability. The CEPA also reflects the UAE's long-standing determination to build partnerships to foster shared prosperity while creating opportunities for coming generations and achieving their aspirations for development.

The CEPA also reflects the UAE's long-standing determination to build partnerships to foster shared prosperity while creating opportunities for coming generations and achieving their aspirations for development.

The Angolan President welcomed the exchange of the CEPA and various memoranda of understanding (MoU), underscoring their importance in reinforcing and diversifying economic cooperation to benefit the peoples of both nations.

The CEPA was signed by Dr Thani Bin Ahmad Al Zeyoudi, UAE Minister of Foreign Trade, and Rui Miguens de Oliveira, Angolan Minister of Industry and Commerce.

Economic ties

The CEPA deepens economic ties between the UAE and Angola by eliminating or reducing customs duties, removing unnecessary barriers to trade, expanding market access for service exports, and generating new opportunities for investment and cooperation across various sectors.

The two Presidents also witnessed the exchange of several memoranda of understanding between the UAE and Angola, including an MoU in the field of artificial intelligence, an MoU between the Central Bank of the UAE and the National Bank of Angola, and an MoU between Al Dhara and the Angolan Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry.

The UAE President stated that the agreements and memoranda of understanding exchanged by the UAE and Angola across the public and private sectors reflect the two countries' shared commitment to leveraging all opportunities to usher in a new era of cooperation. — WAM

Google's 'AI Mode' to make tasks easy for UAE users

It can handle complex, multi-part queries

DUBAI

BY DHANUSHA GOKULAN
Chief Reporter

Google is rolling out its most powerful AI search experience, AI Mode, in English across the Middle East and North Africa, with the feature gradually becoming available to users in the UAE over the next few days.

Powered by a custom version of the latest Gemini 2.5 model, AI Mode is designed to handle complex, multi-part questions that would previously have required multiple searches, Google explained in a statement.

For residents in the UAE, this could mean easier tasks like comparing the latest smartphones, planning a road trip across the Emirates, or understanding complex how-to guides.

According to Google, early users of the feature are asking questions that are two to three times longer than a standard search query. The new feature is truly multimodal, allowing users to ask questions using text, voice, or even an image. Simply tap the microphone icon to speak your query, or upload a photo and ask a question about it.

The yellow buses rolled out at dawn, parents clutched phones to capture every moment, and children in crisp uniforms rushed through gates adorned with balloons and welcome boards.

Across the UAE, the first day of the 2025-26 academic year for many, and the start of a new term for the rest, was a blend of excitement, nerves, and festive cheer as more than a million students made a staggered return to schools after the long summer break yesterday.

Gifts on arrival

In some schools, families stopped to pose with photo booth props, while at some others, younger pupils received chocolates, juices and other gifts.

friends and meet new ones," said 11-year-old Tinodiwa Makahamadze in Dubai. "I'm also looking forward to the fun activities and trips this year," said the Zimbabwean student at Hampton Heights International School in Dubai.

In Abu Dhabi, Grade 3 student Mariam Al Mutawa and her brother Khalifa arrived with their mother at Yas American Academy. "I'm happy to be back and ready to learn new things," she said.

Breathing room

Federal government employees enjoyed flexible hours for drop-offs and pick-ups — three hours on the first day, and for nursery and kindergarten children, across the first week. Many parents seized the opportunity to walk their children to classrooms, meet teachers, and capture keepsake photos.

Unique welcome

Adding an unforgettable twist to the morning, Dubai Police deployed a special line-up of mounted units, luxury patrol cars, bicycles, and K9 teams to schools. Officers helped manage traffic, greeted students in person, and even handed out gifts. Children petted horses and dogs, admired the gleaming supercars, and thanked the officers.

Amid all the bustle, yesterday was about the joy of reunions. Classrooms buzzed with chatter; corridors echoed with laughter as teachers welcomed families at the gates.
