

£10 off No7 at Boots

When you spend £20

IN STORE ONLY. TERMS APPLY

VOUCHER
PAGE 44

SECRET AFGHAN AIRLIFT

REVENGE OF THE TALIBAN

Warlords' vengeful killing spree against hundreds of Afghans after data leak — with three murdered in past week alone

EXCLUSIVE

By David Williams
and Sam Greenhill

TALIBAN warlords are on a vengeful killing spree against hundreds of Afghans after the British Government lost a top secret database.

One man was shot by a gunman who stepped from an alley on Monday and fired four bullets at close range into his chest — one of three assassinations in the past seven days.

Panic has been spreading since Tuesday when Afghans were officially informed their personal details had been lost in the UK's worst ever data blunder, putting 100,000 'at risk of death'.

Thousands received 'notifications' from His Majesty's Government saying sorry, and adding: 'We understand this news may be concerning.'

It is not known if the Taliban actually has the database, which includes names of Afghans who helped the UK, as well as members of the British intelligence community, it is understood. But one Afghan soldier, who fled to

Facing the music: Andy Byron and colleague Kristin Cabot

A raging wife and why Coldplay kiss cam cuddle could cost tech boss £30million

SEE PAGE 5