

Chicago Tribune

QUESTIONS? CALL 1-800-TRIBUNE

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 2025

BREAKING NEWS AT CHICAGOTRIBUNE.COM

CHICAGO CITY COUNCIL

Mayor pledges veto on curfew

Ordinance giving top cop power to set limits for teens passes by narrow margin

By Jake Sheridan
Chicago Tribune

Mayor Brandon Johnson announced he will issue a rare mayoral veto after aldermen granted Chicago's police superintendent the power Wednesday to declare a teen curfew anytime, anywhere in the city.

The highly contentious ordinance faced months of City Council debate before passing in a 27-22 vote. After the vote, Johnson, who had blasted it as "lazy governance" and unnecessary, said he will issue the first mayoral veto in decades in a bid to kill the ordinance.

Johnson called the measure "counterproductive to the progress that we have made in reducing crime and violence" and said it will elicit costly lawsuits against the city.

"It's important now more than ever that we do not repeat the sins and the failures of the past," Johnson said. "I stand against this proposal because we need data-driven, effective strategies to guide our community."

Turn to Curfew, Page 4

Ald. Brian Hopkins, 2nd, watches as votes roll in Wednesday on an ordinance that would give Chicago's police superintendent the power to declare a curfew for teens during a City Council meeting at City Hall. AUDREY RICHARDSON/CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Ruling a blow to trans rights

6-3 high court vote upholds Tenn. ban on care for youths

By Mark Sherman
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court on Wednesday upheld Tennessee's ban on gender-affirming care for transgender minors, a jolting setback to transgender rights.

The justices' 6-3 decision effectively protects from legal challenges many efforts by President Donald Trump's Republican administration and state governments to roll back protections for transgender people. Another 26 states have laws similar to Tennessee's.

Chief Justice John Roberts wrote for a conservative majority that the law banning puberty blockers and hormone treatments for trans minors doesn't violate the Constitution's equal protection clause, which requires the government to treat similarly situated people the same.

"This case carries with it

Turn to Ruling, Page 5

'CATASTROPHIC FAILURE': Chicago-area transgender and other community groups responded with disappointment and anger Wednesday to the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to uphold Tennessee's ban on gender-affirming care. Chicagoland, Page 5

ANTONIO PEREZ/CHICAGO TRIBUNE

ICE center access denied

U.S. Reps., including Danny Davis, Jesus "Chuy" Garcia, Delia Ramirez and Jonathan Jackson, show identification to a security camera as they attempt to enter into a U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement center in Broadview on Wednesday. While demanding greater transparency from the federal government, the legislators, along with immigration advocates, were denied access to the building. Chicagoland, Page 2

In Plano, backlash disrupts Juneteenth revelry

By Rebecca Johnson and Molly Morrow
Chicago Tribune

What Jamal Williams remembers from Plano's Juneteenth celebration three years ago isn't just its record attendance — the organizer and former alderman said about 1,100 people showed up. Between the live band and fireworks, he was proud that residents of all races and political affiliations celebrated together.

"It was overwhelming. There was no negativity there," he said. "The police were getting along with people. People were parking, people were grilling, kids were jumping around."

Plano, a town near Aurora in Kendall County that's home to about 12,000, made history in February 2021 when it became the first municipality in Illinois to recognize Juneteenth as a holiday, officials there say. It has held annual celebrations ever since, until this year.

Due to dwindling attendance and derogatory comments on social media, this year's festivities were initially canceled, Williams said. But some residents wanted the show to go on. So organizers decided to move the Thursday event to

Turn to Juneteenth, Page 4

LOSING FUNDING:

Celebrations have been scaled back this year due to funding shortfalls as companies and cities across the U.S. rethink support for diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives. Business, Page 2

BRIAN CASSELLA/CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Soaked in the city

A pedestrian navigates through the rain along South Wabash Avenue that moved into the Chicago area Wednesday afternoon. According to the National Weather Service, Thursday and Friday will likely be free of storms. Extreme heat will hit Chicagoland beginning Saturday, with highs approaching record levels early next week.

Winnetka signs 20-year extension with coal-heavy energy provider

By Lily Carey
Chicago Tribune

As state and local governments look to transition to clean energy, some Winnetka residents were disappointed the Village Council voted Tuesday to extend by 20 years the village's contract with an energy provider supplied largely by a downstate coal plant.

"The price of renewable power is coming down. So for us to lock ourselves into a predominantly coal power purchasing agreement for 30 years, I think it's a mistake," said Patrick Hanley, a state Senate candidate and former member of the Winnetka Environment Board, ahead of the meeting. "And as a young person living in Winnetka, it's a mistake that I'm going to have to deal with."

While most Illinois cities and towns source their power through larger electric providers like ComEd or Ameren, Winnetka is one of about 30 municipalities in the state — three of which are in the Chicago area — that banded together to contract with the Illinois Municipal Electric Agency, a not-for-profit cooperative electric supplier.

Winnetka has contracted

Turn to Coal, Page 2

Lab owner sentenced

A suburban man who operated a COVID-19 testing site gets seven years in prison for falsifying results. Chicagoland, Page 3

Iran spurns warning

Iran's supreme leader rejects U.S. calls on Wednesday for surrender in the face of more Israeli strikes. Nation & World

TODAY'S WEATHER

High 85 Low 67

Complete Chicagoland forecast on Page 12

$4.00 city and suburbs and elsewhere
178th year No. 170 © Chicago Tribune

