

Mounjaro's left me so hooked on losing weight I've become bulimic

SEE PAGE 31

As five-day strike begins, Wes Streeting gives defiant interview to the Daily Mail

I WON'T CAVE IN TO MILITANT DOCTORS

Fairytale: Apple founder Steve Jobs' daughter Eve

Inside story of the most glamorous wedding of the summer

SEE PAGES 22-23

WES Streeting last night took aim at the leaders of today's striking doctors whose five-day walkout is set to inflict 'untold misery' on patients.

The Health Secretary

EXCLUSIVE

By Shaun Wooller
Health Editor

accused union officials of acting in bad faith during talks or being 'too weak' to get a grip of their members.

On the eve of the strikes, he told the Mail he would not cave in to their 'unreasonable' demands, adding: 'I'm not going to let the BMA hold this country to ransom.'

Mr Streeting said union leaders had given the impression they were happy with how negotiations had progressed and he had believed they would pause

Turn to Page 6