Law issued on public health in Dubai

DUBAI
BY ASHFAQ AHMED
Senior Assistant Editor

A comprehensive framework has been established to promote public health and safeguard community and environmental well-being by focusing on disease prevention, health care, food and product safety, and sustainable efforts to improve overall quality of life.

A new law to this effect was issued by His Highness Sheikh Mohammad Bin Rashid Al Maktoum, Vice-President and Prime Minister of the UAE and Ruler of Dubai.

Minimising health risks

Law No. (5) of 2025 on Public Health in Dubai also seeks to minimise health risks affecting individuals and communities in Dubai through precautionary measures and evidence-based practices that align with both local and international health regulations. It promotes greater coordination and collaboration at all levels to strengthen preparedness and response to deal with public health challenges across the emirate.

Additionally, the law aims to increase public awareness of health risks and prevention methods, encourage shared responsibility for well-being, and foster a sustainable environment that attracts investment. It further seeks to enhance the UAE's global standing in public health competitiveness.

India vows swift response to Kashmir terror attack

GUNMEN KILLED DOZENS AT TOURIST HOTSPOT PAHALGAM ON TUESDAY

PAHALGAM

India's defence minister vowed yesterday a swift response to those who carried out and planned the Indian-administered Kashmir region's worst attack on civilians in years.

"Those responsible and behind such an act will very soon hear our response, loud and clear," Rajnath Singh said in a speech in New Delhi, a day after gunmen killed 26 men at a tourist hotspot in the Himalayan region.

"We won't just reach those people who carried out the attack. We will also reach out to those who planned this from behind the scenes on our land."

Singh did not identify those he believes are responsible for the killings, but said that "India's government will take every step that may be necessary and appropriate".

No group has claimed responsibility for the attack in the Muslim-majority region.

Strong resolve

Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi has pledged that those responsible for the "heinous act" will "be brought to justice".

Modi was set to hold an emergency cabinet meeting with top security chiefs later yesterday.

"Their evil agenda will never succeed," Modi said in a statement shortly after the attack. "Our resolve to fight terrorism is unshakeable and it will get even stronger."

Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Omar Abdullah said the attack had been "much larger than anything we've seen directed at civilians" in recent years.

A hospital list verified by police recorded 26 men who were killed on Tuesday afternoon when gunmen burst out of forests at a popular tourist spot in Pahalgam and raked crowds of visitors with automatic weapons.

Dubai resident killed

An Indian expatriate in Dubai was among the Pahalgam victims, a family friend confirmed to Gulf News.

Niraj Udhvani, a 33-year-old finance professional, was on a holiday with his wife Aayushi when gunmen opened fire in the popular tourist zone, Niraj's friend said.

In a separate incident in Kashmir at Baramulla yesterday, the army killed two people after a "heavy exchange of fire", saying the gunmen were part of an "infiltration bid" crossing the contested frontier from Pakistan.

India has an estimated 500,000 soldiers permanently deployed in the territory.
