

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

DOW JONES | News Corp

TUESDAY, JULY 21, 2026 ~ VOL. CCLXXXVIII NO. 17

WSJ.com

★★★★ $5.00

DJIA 51839.26 ▼ 307.16 0.59%

NASDAQ 25508.07 ▼ 0.05%

STOXX 600 639.60 ▼ 0.3%

10-YR. TREAS. ▼ 14/32, yield 4.597%

OIL $83.23 ▲ $0.74

GOLD $4,010.30 ▼ $2.40

EURO $1.1417

YEN 162.50

What's News

Business & Finance

◆ A federal judge in California granted a temporary restraining order prohibiting Paramount and Warner Bros. Discovery from closing an $81 billion merger deal. B1

◆ Electric-vehicle maker Polestar confirmed that it won't appeal a national-security-motivated Commerce Department ban on selling new models in the U.S. B1

◆ In the wake of the 2026 World Cup, the most popular ever, FIFA is planning to cash in on media rights for the 2030 and 2034 tournaments. B1

◆ A chip-stock rebound lost steam, helping to pull down the S&P 500 and Dow by 0.2% and 0.6%, respectively, and the Nasdaq by less than 0.1%. B9

◆ An index of U.S. leading economic indicators edged lower last month as consumer spending weakened. A2

◆ Icahn Enterprises struck a deal to sell auto-service chain Pep Boys to private-equity-owned Mavis Tire Express Services for about $700 million. B3

◆ BlackRock is leading a debt sale targeting at least $12 billion for its massive new El Paso data-center project backed by Meta Platforms. B3

◆ Ryanair posted a drop in fiscal first-quarter profit, hit by lower fares and higher jet-fuel costs. B3

◆ Dominio's Pizza reported higher profit and revenue for the second quarter but same-store sales growth slowed. B3

◆ The EU's executive arm fined Alibaba's AliExpress the equivalent of $629.2 million, the largest penalty handed to a company under the bloc's Digital Services Act. B4

Worldwide

◆ Andy Burnham, Britain's seventh prime minister in a decade, arrived at 10 Downing Street pledging that a bigger, more muscular state can solve the country's economic woes and restore political stability. A1

◆ Israeli intelligence believes Iran moved thousands of uranium-enrichment centrifuges into tunnels deep beneath a mountain last fall, heightening concerns that Tehran could reconstitute its nuclear program. A1, A6

◆ The Iranian ballistic missile attack on a Jordanian air base that killed at least two U.S. servicemembers struck prefabricated housing units where troops lived. A6

◆ Lockheed Martin said it would field a new and cheaper model of Patriot missile that could be deployed faster as global stockpiles of sophisticated interceptors dwindle. A4

◆ Trump will impose an additional 50% tariff on certain goods from Canada, including wine, hockey sticks and cement, with the White House saying the duties were a response to "discriminatory treatment of American products." A2

◆ Ismael "El Mayo" Zambada was sentenced to life in prison for his role as a top leader of the Sinaloa Cartel drug syndicate he ran alongside Joaquín "El Chapo" Guzmán. A3

◆ The FDA walked back an earlier statement that a sample of lettuce from Taylor Farms tested positive for the parasite cyclospora. A3

◆ The American Heart Association said that up to five cups of coffee a day are safe for most adults and may benefit cardiac health. A3

CONTENTS	Markets Digest..... B6
Arts in Review..... A12	Opinion..... A13-15
Business & Finance B2.5	Personal Journal A10-11
Business News..... B3	Sports..... A16
Crossword..... A12	Technology..... B4
Heard on Street..... B10	U.S. News..... A2-4
Markets..... B9	World News..... A6,8

© 2026 Dow Jones & Company, Inc.
All Rights Reserved

Andy Burnham, the U.K.'s new prime minister, said he wants to devolve power from London to the regions.

Keir Starmer
2024-2026

Rishi Sunak
2022-2024

Liz Truss
Sept.-Oct. 2022

Boris Johnson
2019-2022

Theresa May
2016-2019

David Cameron
2010-2016

Burnham Becomes U.K.'s 7th Leader In Decade

By MAX COLCHESTER

LONDON—Andy Burnham, the U.K.'s seventh prime minister in a decade, arrived Monday at 10 Downing Street pledging that a bigger, more muscular state can solve the country's economic woes and restore political stability.

Standing in front of the prime minister's official residence, Burnham said he was acutely aware the U.K. had been cycling through leaders at an unprecedented rate. "It requires my generation of politicians to raise our game and rise to the new challenge," he said. "Britain needs to show the world that we can regain our stability once again."

The 56-year-old painted a broad-brush vision for the country, where a more interventionist state would roll back what he called 40 years of neoliberalism. Burnham wants to devolve power from London to the regions.

He pledged to present a 10-year plan for the country this year that would offer "a new political model and a new economic model."

Please turn to page A8

Israel Tells U.S. That Iran Moved Centrifuges To Tunnels

Israeli intelligence believes Iran moved thousands of uranium-enrichment centrifuges into tunnels deep inside a mountain last fall, Israeli and U.S. officials said, a development that would heighten concerns that Tehran could reconstitute its nuclear program.

By Laurence Norman
in Berlin,
Anat Peled in Tel Aviv
and Alexander Ward in Washington

Israel has passed along the intelligence findings to the U.S., saying the centrifuges were transferred to the Pickaxe Mountain site last fall after a 12-day war in June in which U.S. and Israeli strikes pummeled Iran's three main nuclear sites.

As Israel's war aims have increasingly diverged from the U.S.'s, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has tried to persuade President Trump to resume all-out attacks on Iran to further set back Tehran's nuclear program.

Please turn to page A6

- ◆ Mediators seek path to a ceasefire...... A6
- ◆ Missile hit housing for U.S. troops on Jordan base...... A6

IRS Chief Spied on Colleagues When He Worked at JPMorgan

By ALEXANDER SAEEDY

Frank Bisignano, the head of the Internal Revenue Service and Social Security Administration, sits atop two government organizations that store vast reams of sensitive financial data about every taxpayer.

More than a decade ago, he was co-chief operating officer at JPMorgan Chase, another perch that gave him visibility and authority over every part of a massive financial institution.

At the bank, people familiar with the matter said, he spied on fellow executives—using his authority over the security department and position to access sensitive information and internal communications without an apparent business justification.

The executive directed his security staff to use software to snoop in the email of rival executives—including Charlie Scharf, JPMorgan's then head of consumer banking who is now the CEO of Wells Fargo, some of the people said. One executive said he suspected the spying and put a code phrase in his email, which he said Bisignano repeated back to him.

Bisignano also accessed a draft complaint from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission about a questioned derivatives trade that was a confidential document only seen by a few members of the legal department, some said. He also directed his staff to use software to surveil the work of employees, sometimes seeking to track keystrokes—which can show draft versions of written material—others said.

The people said Bisignano's goal was to keep a tight rein on employees and use the information to undermine his rivals as he expanded his responsibilities. No allegations are known to pertain to the improper access of customer information.

Around the end of 2012, fol-

Please turn to page A9

Military Splurges on Startups

The Pentagon is using a surging budget to shower money on some high-tech defense startups—while also unloading ever-larger sums of cash on the traditional vendors. A4

Chinese AI Models Raise Alarm in U.S.

By AMRITH RAMKUMAR
AND TINA LI

Silicon Valley and Washington are debating a multi-billion-dollar question: Should U.S. companies be able to use Chinese artificial-intelligence models?

OpenAI and Anthropic executives are sounding the alarm about the rise of cheap AI, particularly powerful new models produced in China, suggesting they will lead to a "dystopian" AI future and present unacceptable security risks without regulation.

Some analysts who study the AI industry said the two companies, which are preparing for public listings in the next year, just want to eliminate the competition.

The emergence of highly capable, open autonomous AI systems—including Moonshot AI's Kimi K3 model and Alibaba's Qwen 3.8 Max, which were released in recent days and viewed favorably by investors and users—has turned the AI race on its head once again. Kimi K3 also was competitive with U.S. models on some benchmarks.

Please turn to page A4

- ◆ Shanghai exhibit places spotlight on AI advances.... A8

For a Great Time at Disneyland, Choose a Designated Scroller

Avoiding endless lines requires one person in every group be glued to their phone

By BEN FRITZ

ANAHEIM, Calif.—Walt Disney designed Disneyland's Main Street U.S.A. to transport visitors out of the modern world into a fantasy packed with old-fashioned storefronts and barber-shop quartets.

Kari Bart walked past it all hunched over a twin stroller with her head buried in her phone.

Many visitors miss the magic surrounding them in Disney parks these days. They're too busy doing what Bart was—using an app to book and revise ride reservations.

The Colorado travel agent's three young children were "very excited" for the Haunted Mansion, so she used her phone to ensure they could skip the line—at the same time she was trying to prevent them from getting run over by a streetcar.

Appest place

Please turn to page A11

World Cup Host Cities Reap Economic Boost

By OWEN TUCKER-SMITH

The Scots drank every drop of beer in Boston. The Dutch filled Kansas City's hotels. The French chowed down on Philly cheesesteaks.

For the past month, soccer fans at home and from abroad opened their wallets and boosted spending in World Cup host cities across the U.S. The complete tally is still being added up (the final match was Sunday), but some U.S. business owners are already claiming economic victory. The biggest winners weren't star-studded cities such as New York and Los Angeles, but less-obvious destinations including Philadelphia and Kansas City, Mo., which saw notable boosts in tourism.

"It's fun to make a lot of money," said Doug Hager, owner of Brauhaus Schmitz, a German beer hall and restaurant in Philadelphia that anointed itself the city's "World Cup Headquarters" and advertised "late afternoon

Please turn to page A2

- ◆ Jason Gay: Epic tournament will be hard to forget.... A16
- ◆ FIFA pushes media rights sale after ratings boon.... B1

INSIDE

JUSTIN SULLIVAN/GETTY IMAGES

BUSINESS & FINANCE

Judge temporarily blocks Paramount-Warner deal in states' antitrust case. B1

PERSONAL JOURNAL

Well-heeled travelers are splurging to avoid hordes and hassles inside the terminal. A10