

In the new Traitors, the female of the species will be far more dangerous

FIVE-STAR REVIEW SEE PAGE 11

NEW ORLEANS KILLER HAD ISIS FLAG ON TRUCK

Terrorist who killed at least 15 by driving into New Year crowds was US Army veteran and FBI say he 'didn't act alone'

By Vanessa Allen, Germania Rodriguez Poleo and Emma Richter

A SUSPECTED terrorist with an Islamic State flag rammed a truck into crowds of New Year revellers in New Orleans yesterday, killing 15 and injuring at least 35.

The US Army veteran drove the white Ford pick-up at high speed down historic Bourbon Street in the Louisiana city's French Quarter, which was packed with partygoers.

He then crashed the vehicle and opened fire at police officers, before he was shot dead. Authorities reportedly found pipe bombs wired for remote detonation hidden in coolers in the pick-up, as well as a remote control for the devices.

At least two other suspected bombs were found in the French Quarter. The FBI said it had made the devices safe and that the attack was being treated as an act of

Turn to Page 4

What's the truth behind Meghan's dramatic 2025 beach video relaunch?

I'm back: The Duchess of Sussex released a clip on social media yesterday, having quit in 2020 SEE PAGE THREE