ECO-MOB TO JOIN GAZA PROTESTS

■ Now Just Stop Oil links up with banned Palestine Action

■ Fears of summer of chaos as hundreds risk arrest today

MILITANT eco-activists have joined forces with supporters of the banned group Palestine Action, raising fears that Britain could face months of protest chaos.

Eco-warriors from Just Stop Oil (JSO), Extinction Rebellion (XR) and Insulate Britain plan to back Palestine Action supporters during a fraught weekend of demonstrations.

Police are gearing up to make mass arrests today when more than 500 people are expected to descend on London in solidarity with the outlawed pro-Gaza group.

And three thousand riot officers will reportedly be deployed and placed on standby to keep the peace at a series of anti-asylum demonstrations and counter protests in locations including Islington and Canary Wharf in London.

JSO activists with a history of vandalising national treasures, blocking motorways and disrupting major sporting events are among those who have been held by police in recent weeks for supporting Palestine Action, which was proscribed as a terror group last month.

This newspaper has obtained a recording that indicates activists intend to chain themselves to each other in support of the terror group, mirroring tactics used by climate change protesters to thwart police.

It raises the spectre of Britain being brought to a standstill again, with protesters planning mass disruption until November, and a probable bill
