

The Boston Globe

Serving our community since 1872

TUESDAY, AUGUST 4, 2026

Breslow rewards Red Sox with big moves

Amid season-altering hot streak, boss pays high price to bolster Series-dreaming team

PETER ABRAHAM

Minor league, major cost

The package of prospects dealt by the Sox is immense, writes Alex Speier. C1.

LOS ANGELES — Chief baseball officer Craig Breslow stayed in the shallow end of the pool during the 2024 and '25 trade deadlines, making only minor moves that did little to improve the Red Sox roster.

This year, he took a running start and cannonballed into the deep end.

What a splash. The Sox acquired All-Star catcher Adley Rutschman from the division rival Baltimore Orioles for catcher Carlos Narváez and three highly regarded prospects.

Breslow wasn't done there. He sent former first-round pick Marcelo Mayer to the San Francisco Giants for left-handed reliever Erik Miller and a minor league outfielder.

The Sox also obtained outfielder Eli White from the Atlanta Braves for Triple-A righthanded pitcher Tyler Uberstine.

SOX, Page C4

EMILEE CHINN/GETTY IMAGES

Just as they were at the All-Star Game, Aroldis Chapman and ex-Orioles catcher Adley Rutschman are teammates.

Question of fraud again hits program

AG investigating whether MassHousing gave funds for safety work not done

By Joey Flechas and Gordon Russell

GLOBE STAFF

A second case of apparently phony invoices paid by the state's affordable housing finance agency is under investigation by the Massachusetts attorney general after MassHousing officials determined they had given hundreds of thousands of dollars for work that wasn't done.

FOLLOW-UP

At the center of the dispute is

Hunter Foote, the founder of Vanderburgh Sober Living, who received grants from MassHousing totaling around $700,000 to install fire sprinkler systems at nine of his sober homes, most of which the state is demanding he pay back.

The allegations closely resemble those in a recent Globe Spotlight Team report that found two developers with a hidden connection to a top MassHousing executive had submitted fake invoices for more than half a million dollars to a program intended to boost affordable housing in the Gate-

SPRINKLERS, Page A12

Controversial contract sparks another suit

Mismanagement alleged in courthouse bid process

By Samantha J. Gross

GLOBE STAFF

SPRINGFIELD — For the second time in as many years, Governor Maura Healey's administration is being taken to court after a large state contract became mired in controversy, finger-pointing, and allegations of conflicts of interest.

The latest round of high drama and accusations of potential mismanagement involves a $2 billion award for a new courthouse in downtown Springfield to a team stuffed with well-connected Boston figures.

One of them, the interim head of the Massachusetts

SPRINGFIELD, Page A8

DAVID L. RYAN/GLOBE STAFF

Portugal's Sagres tall ship passed Boston Light (foreground) and Graves Light last month in a picture shot with a telephoto lens.

A NEW COURSE FOR BOSTON LIGHT

Feds are putting the site of famed beacon up for grabs

By Catherine Carlock

GLOBE STAFF

The federal government is selling Boston's light. But don't worry, it's not going out.

Federal officials said Monday they're offering to give the Coast Guard's historic Light Station Boston at the mouth of Boston Harbor — the country's oldest continually operating lighthouse — at no cost to a local government or nonprofit organization that's willing to maintain it. Those include educational institutions.

The proposal is part of broader efforts to dispose of unneeded property and reduce costs.

It's a rare opportunity to steward the facility, which has

BOSTON LIGHT, Page A12

Brown University leader stepping down

Set to leave after academic year; guided institution through fraught, fitful times

By Christopher Gavin and Alexa Gagosz

GLOBE STAFF

PROVIDENCE — Brown University president Christina H. Paxson, who led the school through some of the most turbulent years in higher education, will step down in June 2027, university leaders revealed Monday.

The announcement marks the end of one of the most consequential presidencies in Brown's history. Over the last 15 years, Paxson led the university through the COVID-19 pandemic, contentious student protests over the war in Gaza, escalating federal scrutiny of higher education, a controversial agreement with the Trump administration that restored hundreds of millions of dollars in research funding, and a devastating campus shooting that killed two students and injured others.

GLOBE STAFF/2021

Christina H. Paxson

University Chancellor Brian T. Moynihan, in a letter to the school community, wrote Paxson informed the Corporation of Brown University she believes Brown "will soon be ready to begin a new strategic planning process" and "it is the right time to find a new president who will lead this multi-year effort for Brown and be in place to implement their vision for the next generation."

BROWN, Page A8

Journals seized from Lindsay Clancy's home show she was feeling overwhelmed after the birth of her third child, according to testimony. B1.

Todd Blanche appeared to be on a path toward confirmation as US attorney general. A2.

VOL. 310, NO. 35

*

Suggested retail price
$4.00

Be bright back

Tuesday: More sun, less humid.
High 84-89, low 65-70.

Wednesday: Storm late.
High 81-86, low 68-73.

Sunrise: 5:40. Sunset: 8:00.

Weather and comics, D5-6.

Obituaries, C11.

For breaking news, updated stories, and more, visit our website:

BostonGlobe.com

PAID FOR BY ANIMAL EQUALITY

An open letter to Ambassador Caroline Kennedy

Please preserve President Kennedy's legacy.

Inside today's Boston Globe: A respectful appeal regarding two JFK Library leaders whose concerning corporate conduct conflicts with the values they represent.

A FULL-PAGE OPEN LETTER INSIDE TODAY'S BOSTON GLOBE | animalequality