ANDREW 'HAD KNOWN CHINA SPY 10 YEARS'

Duke met him in 2012 and only dropped him after he was rumbled

EXCLUSIVE

PRINCE Andrew knew an alleged Chinese spy for a decade, the Mail can reveal.

The pair met in 2012 and it was not until 2022, after the former Chinese civil servant was rumbled by security services, that the Duke of York 'dropped' him, it was claimed.

During those ten years Andrew appointed him a trusted business adviser, court papers disclosed this week.

Yesterday the disgraced duke, 64, was urged to 'be clear and honest' amid calls for an inquiry into how the alleged Chinese agent had infiltrated the Royal Family.

Ex-government trade envoy Andrew broke his silence last night on the latest scandal to engulf him, saying he had 'ceased all contact' with the supposed spy after receiving advice from officials.

It came as it was claimed that MI5 was investigating Chinese money given to Andrew. The
