UAE opens private tutoring work permits

Students, teachers, employees from both public and private sectors to benefit

DUBAI

BY KHITAM AL AMIR
Chief News Editor

The UAE has outlined eligibility criteria for private tutoring work permits, allowing students, teachers and employees from both the public and private sectors to legally provide private lessons after obtaining approval from the authorities.

The Ministry of Human Resources and Emiratization (MoHRE) said the permit, issued in coordination with the Ministry of Education, is available to four categories: students, private-sector employees, government and semi-government employees, and registered tutors.

Student permits

Under the rules, school students applying for the permit must be between 15 and 18 years old, hold a valid UAE residence permit and provide parental consent, proof of enrolment, a medical fitness certificate and a certificate of good conduct. University students are also eligible, subject to documentary requirements.

The ministry said applicants must submit requests through its digital platforms, after which applications are reviewed and coordinated with the Ministry of Education before permits are issued.

Private-sector employees, government workers and registered teachers must provide educational qualifications, valid identification documents, medical fitness certificates and certificates of good conduct. Employees in government and semi-government entities, as well as schoolteachers, are also required to obtain no-objection certificates from their employers.

The ministry said applications meeting all requirements would be processed within two days, while the permit would remain valid for two years.

Trump threat clouds Swiss talks with Iran

VANCE HAILS 'HISTORIC' NEGOTIATIONS AS LEBANON TENSIONS TEST MOU

DUBAI

US President Donald Trump threatened fresh strikes against Iran yesterday if Tehran failed to rein in Hezbollah, even as senior American and Iranian officials held what Vice-President JD Vance described as "historic" talks aimed at building on last week's interim peace deal.

"Iran must immediately stop their highly-paid proxies in Lebanon from causing trouble," Trump wrote on Truth Social. "If they don't, we'll hit Iran very hard again, just like we did last week, only harder." The talks at the Borgenstock resort are taking place amid fears that renewed fighting between Israel and the Iran-backed Hezbollah group could derail the fragile memorandum of agreement signed by Washington and Tehran.

Chance to reset relations

Vance, leading the US delegation alongside Steve Witkoff and Jared Kushner, said the negotiations offered a chance to reset relations. "Can we turn over a new leaf? Can we change relations in the Middle East permanently?" Vance asked.

Iran's delegation was led by Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi and chief negotiator Mohammad Bagher Ghalibaf. Pakistan and Qatar are mediating the discussions, with Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif and Qatari Prime Minister Sheikh Mohammed Bin Abdul Rahman Al Thani participating in the opening session.

Sharif expressed hope that the negotiations would produce "a wonderful paper" that promotes peace and prosperity.

The talks opened after days of clashes between Israel and Hezbollah despite a ceasefire provision in the US-Iran memorandum of understanding that calls for an end to hostilities across the region. Vance said he had seen "great progress" in preserving the ceasefire in Lebanon, but acknowledged that more work was needed as negotiators seek to prevent regional tensions from undermining the broader US-Iran agreement.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said yesterday that Israeli forces would remain in southern Lebanon "as long as necessary", while also vowing to prevent Iran from acquiring nuclear weapons.
